SEA LOSSES PROVE BLOW TO TOKYO

LONGER WORK WEEK BACKED IN CONGRESS

DOUBLE-TIME PAY IS OUT, RAYBURN BELIEVES

Washington, March 23. (AP)—The movement to alter the wage-hour law received powerful support tonight when Speaker Rayburn expressed the opinion that time-and-half pay should begin after 48 hours, instead of 40, as at present.

He gave his views in endorsing a provision in a resolution adopted yesterday during a mass meeting in Dallas, Tex.

"I endorse the resolution passed yesterday in Dallas, calling for a 48-hour work week," he said.

"I think that time and a half should be paid for employment after 48 hours."

Roosevelt Satisfied

There is a rising clamor on Capitol Hill for new labor legislation, but President Roosevelt has taken the position that things are going along pretty well now and has indicated opposition to a change in the law.

Rayburn was asked for his opinion about double pay on Sundays and holidays, now provided in some union-management contracts.

"Double time," he replied tersely. "I think that ought to be out."

For one thing, Donald M. Nelson told a meeting of CIO leaders, labor must give up for the duration extra pay for Sunday and holiday work falling within a regular work week.

For another, the war production chief said, it must eliminate any possible basis for charges that union restrictions retard production.

"You will police your organizations in that respect," he said. "You will see to it that such restrictions are removed and that no worker anywhere does less than his best for fear that his union will punish him."

The CIO meeting was assembled by President Philip Murray primarily for the purpose of mapping opposition to the various pending proposals for labor legislation.

Message To Murray

To Murray, President Roosevelt sent a letter recalling that in recent years workers had "gained new privileges and reaffirmed old rights."

"If we lose this war," Mr. Roosevelt said, "they and all the rest of our American liberties will be lost. * * *

"With rights and privileges go responsibilities. We are learning in the hard days of war what is some times overlooked in the easy days of peace; that liberty and freedom belong only to men and women who earn them, and that none of the values which make life in America worth living can be retained except by people who will give everything and do everything to keep them."

The CIO meeting went on record in favor of wage increases and guarantees of union security. The latter expressions, as usually defined, means a contract provision calling for a union shop (one in which all employes must join the union) or maintenance of membership (a requirement that employes joining the union must, as a condition to continued employment, maintain their membership).

Recess Opposed

The conference also denounced what it called the "current campaign against labor" and asked for an investigation of what it termed a "conspiracy" originating in Texas and Oklahoma "in which a number of people and organizations have been led into the use of their names for pro-axis expressions and activities."

While it proceeded, house leaders touched off a series of demands for action on labor legislation by announcing they had made tentative plans for a two weeks

CEILINGS COVER MORE ARTICLES

Price Action By OPM Halts Inflation On Appliances

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The office of price administration tonight put price ceilings on eight major "scarcity" articles—refrigerators, typewriters, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, ironers, radios, phonographs and cooking and heating stoves—to check a "sharp" inflation price movement.

The price action, broadest yet taken by OPA, covered the principal items whose manufacture has been ordered halted or curtailed in order to convert the industries to war production and conserve critical materials.

It was OPA's greatest incursion into the field of retail price control. Moreover, the orders also set maximum prices on wholesale marketing and in two instances—vacuum cleaners and typewriters—lids were put on manufacturers' prices.

The ceilings apply only to new articles, not to used ones. On six of the articles—typewriters, domestic washing machines, Ironing machines, phonographs, radio rereceiving sets, and domestic heating and cooking stoves and ranges—the price decrees were 60-day "temporary orders," pegging prices at the level of last Thursday, March 19.

The two permanent price ceilings applied to household vacuum cleaners and attachments and to household mechanical refrigerators. In these instances the ceilings were fixed at the manufacturers' recommended retail price lists.

Solon Is Convicted On Offer To Sell Vote For New Suit

Jefferson City, Mo., March 23 (AP)—A circuit court jury tonight convicted State Rep. Edward F. Byrnes of offering to sell his legislative vote for the price of a new suit of clothes.

The jury deliberated three and a half hours to bring in a verdict with the maximum punishment—$100 fine and two months in jail.

The jury convicted Byrnes after the testimony of Howard C. Harris, Kansas City insurance man, that Byrnes asked him "will you buy me a suit of clothes?" to help get a burial society regulations bill out of a house committee.

Australian Girls Wed U. S. Soldiers; Clergymen Frown

Brisbane, Australia, Tuesday, March 24. (AP)—The wedding of more than 20 Australian girls to U. S. service men in the past few weeks has led to talk in some quarters of action to discourage the tendency to marry in haste.

Religious leaders are inclined to deprecate the marriages because of extremely brief courtships.

American authorities, however, recognize soldier allotments for Australian wives.

BURNS KILL BABY

Kalamazoo, Mich., March 23. (AP)—Carol Soloman, eight-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Soloman of Kalamazoo, died tonight from burns received yesterday when a short circuit from an electric plate near her bed set the blankets on fire.

Pacific War Situation Outlined By MacArthur

BY VERN HAUGLAND

United States Army Headquarters, Australia, March 23, (AP)—With confidence and deep feeling, General Douglas MacArthur spent two hours today in giving news correspondents a complete account of the Pacific war situation.

The conference was "off the record," but all the 50 correspondents agreed that the supreme commander left nothing to the imagination as he strode to and fro in a makeshift press headquarters and dealt out the facts.

MacArthur spoke for most of the time with statesmanlike calm and with a precision of expression, but his face contorted as he mentioned cruelty and treachery of the Japanese foe.

In emphasizing his intensity of feeling against the "devils" accused of atrocities on allied nationals, the general shook his index finger.

While sparing nothing of the stark realities of the situation, he declared his unbounded faith in the cause of the United Nations, and his voice became husky with the depth of his emotions.

The impression made on Australian news men by the slim, keen-eyed American general was typified by this account from the Melbourne Herald's correspondent:

"He is not only a first-class thinker but a fine speaker.

"It would be a pity if duty were to preclude Australia from hearing him. He has the sort of news Australia wants to hear.

"When you meet him you realize how he infused the mixed Philippine force with an heroic fighting spirit, for he will obviously be unhappy until he returns in triumph to drive out the invader.

"I cannot say what MacArthur said, but none who heard could fail to be heartened not only by what he said but also by the way he said it."

MacArthur also conferred at length with Australian military leaders, including Army Minister Francis M. Forde and Chief of Staff Lieut. Gen. V. A. H. Sturdee.

Forde said he was greatly impressed by MacArthur's grasp of the situation and was high in his praise of the American.

During all this round of activity, MacArthur still wore the bush jacket and light khaki trousers which he had on when he arrived last week after his 2,000-mile flight from the Philippines.

MacArthur summed up his determination in replies to congratulatory messages from General Sir Archibald P. Wavell and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

To the one he said, "I will do my best;" to the other, "I have absolute confidence in complete victory."

CHINESE FLANK JAPS IN BURMA

Quantities of Equipment Seized; Invaders Have Heavy Casualties

Chungking, China, March 23, (AP)—Heavy fighting has been raging on the Burma front along the Pyu river, 35 miles south of Tougoo, since last Friday when Chinese forces smashed a Japanese attack, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's military headquarters announced today.

In this action, reported briefly in a New Delhi communique Saturday, the Chinese said their forces counter-attacked along the Japanese flanks and inflicted 200 casualties upon the invaders.

The Chinese also reported the capture of large quantities of equipment from the Japanese who had moved up the railway from Pegu for the attack.

On the Kwangtung front in south China, the official announcement said, heavy fighting was in progress near Chungshaw, west of Hongkong, following a new Japanese landing on the coast.

Chinese forces taking the offensive west of Canton, occupied capital of Kwangtung, attacked Japanese positions at Samshui, important west river port, and inflicted 200 casualties upon the enemy.

Good Tourist Year Expected In State

Lansing, March 23 (AP)—A "reasonably good" tourist season in northern Michigan is expected this summer on the basis of resort plans under way, Governor Van Wagoner asserted today.

He said resort communities plan train and boat trips to offset the automobile tire situation and development of nearby recreation.

"President Roosevelt's recent statement to the effect that vacations and recreation, properly arranged so as not to interfere with essential war work, actually will help the war program, has given encouragement to Michigan's tourist and resort industry," the governor said.

EX-PRESIDENT DIES

Buenos Aires, March 23, (AP)—Marcelo de Alvear, 74, former president of Argentina, died tonight.

ENEMY STEPS UP BOMBINGS IN AUSTRALIA

ALLIED PILOTS TAKE TOLL; PT. MORESBY MAIN TARGET

BY C. YATES McDANIEL

Melbourne, Australia, March 23, (AP)—In the face of heavy losses inflicted by powerful allied counter-action that had damaged or destroyed nearly 50 enemy planes in four days, the Japanese command hurled its bomber squadrons today at the whole of the northern Australian defense periphery and allied pilots replied with far-ranging attacks upon enemy bases above the mainland.

Wyndham, on the western Australian mainland, was under assault for 10 minutes by a medium force of enemy bombers and to the east Port Moresby on southern New Guinea, an advanced allied position which the Japanese for days had sought in vain to reduce, was attacked by 19 heavy bombers which dropped 67 bombs.

Raiders In Waves

Again, it appeared, the Port Moresby airdrome was the target of targets.

Four Japanese fighters dipped to 200 feet with their machine-guns and cannon blazing, and ran into a steel barrage. One plane swerved sharply, crashed into a hill and bounced 20 yards up its side. The pilot was hurled more than 400 feet. A second plane was believed destroyed.

Immediately before, bombers had attacked their objectives in two waves of ten and nine machines. Many high explosives and scatter bombs were dropped, but the damage was believed slight.

The extent of the raid, together with the known heavy losses the Japanese have suffered in recent weeks, indicated the enemy had built extensive air power in New Guinea and might be expected to use it for an air base against the mainland.

Land Invasion Slowed

Earlier, the rear gunner of an allied reconnaissance plane over the invaded island of Timor had shot down a Japanese fighter

BATAAN SECTOR IS QUIET AGAIN

Philippine Forces Send Congratulations to Gen. MacArthur

Washington, March 23 (AP)—An apparent lull returned to the Philippine fighting front today after two days of intensive Japanese attacks which prompted the defenders to brace for a full-scale enemy offensive.

From Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright came no further reports of aggressive enemy patrol attacks or siege hammering of the Manila bay forts following his disregard of a demand that the American-Filipino defenders surrender "or suffer the consequences."

Official observers were without an explanation but noted that General Wainwright had not revised the report he made Saturday that a renewed assault on the Bataan peninsula positions appeared probable.

The war department announced meanwhile that the troops on Bataan had sent to General Douglas MacArthur in Australia a pledge to carry on the fight with the same courage and zeal they showed under his personal command. It was a message of congratulation on his safe arrival in Australia to assume supreme command in the south Pacific.

In it, a communique said, the Bataan fighters expressed their confidence that "troops of the United Nations in Australia and the Philippines would triumph over the aggressor."

American army bombers operating from Australia, the communique said, accounted for the destruction of at least nine enemy planes and the probable destruction of two others in raids made Saturday and Sunday by allied air forces on Rabaul, New Britain, and Lae, New Guinea.

TIRE THIEVES PAY

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 23. (AP)—Declaring he was setting them up "as examples against tire stealing" Circuit Judge Leonard D. Verdier today sentenced Maynard Wageman, 21, to from 2 to 15 years in southern Michigan prison, and James A. Hutson, 20, to from 1 to 15. The two youths, both of Grand Rapids, had pleaded guilty to stealing two automobile wheels, with tire casings and tubes.

NIPPON SEEKING AIR SUPERIORITY

British and Americans Still Holding Upper Hand In Burma

London, March 23, (AP)—Strong Japanese plane reinforcements were being rushed into Burma today as blow and counter-blow against airdromes signified the vast importance attached by both sides to control of the skies.

The British command reported that for the second successive day heavy Japanese bomber formations dealt serious damage to a British flying field in central Burma, while the British themselves pounced down on a Japanese base on Mingaladon.

Informed sources in London said the Japanese were speeding more planes into Burma in a determined effort to wrest air superiority from the RAF and the American volunteer group.

These sources said, however, that it could be assumed the defenders also were getting reinforcements and declared that the Japanese still were far from the goal of supremacy.

In the earlier stages of the Burma fighting, the AVG alone has accounted for more than 250 Japanese planes.

American U-Boats Sink Three Vessels In Japanese Waters

Washington, March 23 (AP)—The navy announced today three enemy merchant vessels had been sunk in Japanese waters by United States submarines.

In addition, two 2,000-ton freighters were damaged and one enemy destroyer or anti-submarine vessel was attacked and probably sunk.

The navy said the vessels involved had not been reported in any previous navy announcement.

The communique (No. 60) issued at 8:30 p. m. said (about 75):

"Far East—U. S. submarines operating in Japanese waters have recently added the following to the list of enemy merchant vessels sunk or damaged in that area:

"One 7,000-ton tanker sunk.

"One 6,000-ton ship sunk.

"One 5,000-ton freighter sunk.

"Two 2,000-ton freighters damaged.

"In addition to these merchant ships one enemy destroyer or anti-submarine vessel was attacked and probably sunk.

"The above actions have not been reported in any previous navy department communiques.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

NAZIS STIFFEN DEFENSE LINES

Soviet Assaults Being Repulsed, Is Claim From Berlin

BY EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, March 23 (AP)—The Russians indicated their forces were encountering stiffened German resistance all along the line today, but reported local successes on the central and northwestern fronts and annihilation of two enemy regiments fiercely counter-attacking in one undisclosed sector.

The morning communique, reported no important change in positions overnight, told of particularly heavy fighting on the Kalinin front, between Moscow and Leningrad and west of the capital.

On the northwestern sector, it listed one "important place" and a small settlement captured by Red forces which killed 300 Nazis and captured quantities of booty in two stubborn engagements.

Three hundred Germans were declared wiped out in another undisclosed sector and three populated places captured on the central front.

The Germans declared that their troops were on the offensive along some parts of the front and that they were successful in repulsing Soviet assaults. In fighting presumably on the central front, the Nazi high command said that in the last two days the Russians had lost "several thousand dead and a number of prisoners."

In the south, the Germans claimed that Soviet assaults on the Kerch peninsula of the Crimea had "collapsed" while in the Donets basin the Russians were reported continuing heavy attacks without success.

Sky War Flares Up Again In England; Coastal Town Hit

On the Southeast Coast of England, Tuesday, March 24 (AP)—The air war over the channel flared up again last night as German raiders dive-bombed one coastal town for a half hour despite opposition from British night fighters and heavy ground fire.

The night fighters, their machine-guns chattering incessantly in the moonlight skies, finally chased the attackers out to sea.

A stick of bombs caused considerable damage and some casualties in one town on the south east coast as one group of dive bombers came in for a swift attack. Many of the bombs landed on a business section.

There was a sharp, five-minute attack on another area.

The German raids followed a foray by British fighters on the French coast earlier in the day.

Retired Engineer Fred Morley Dies

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 23 (AP)—A former member of the University of Michigan and Purdue university facilities, 86-year-old Fred Morley died here today.

The retired engineer testified last fall against Truman C. Nelson, Ann Arbor real estate dealer later sentenced to 25 to 40 years in prison for armed assault. The court found Nelson had hired a man to assault Morley and recover receipts for $15,540, which the latter said he had given Nelson for investment in securities.

Morley was a native of Lenawee county.

Police Probe Death Leap Of Waitress

Port Huron, Mich., March 23. (AP)—After conferring with police and the prosecutor, Coroner Arthur E. Smith today called for an inquest into the death of a 28-year-old waitress, Miss Margaret Blattert, who was drowned in the St. Clair River Sunday.

Miss Blattert was alleged to have leaped from a coal barge after having left a party accompanied by William McKenzie, 20, member of a Port Huron company of Michigan state troops.

'LITTLE TOKYO' TOWN STARTED

Japanese Moved Out of Southern California Defense Areas

Los Angeles, March 23 (AP)—Evacuation of Southern California's huge Japanese population began in earnest today as 1,000 were moved with military escort to a new home and a new life far from this vital war zone.

Half of the number traveled in an army-guarded motor caravan. It was a strange procession—one that stretched out for three miles and wound in serpentine fashion through hills and wastelands to its destination at Manzanar, 235 miles to the northeast, in the rich, scenic Owens Valley country.

The remainder went by train after tearful good-byes at dawn in a smokey, seldom used depot in downtown Los Angeles.

The evacuees will join a skeleton crew already at work at Manzanar, making ready this transplanted "little Tokyo"—a reception center that will sprawl over the equivalent of 48 city blocks and house more than 10,000 American and foreign born Japanese.

Army officers who will administer the Manzanar center complimented the Japanese for their cooperative efforts.

Pounding Of Malta To Be Stepped Up Under Nazi Chief

London, March 23. (AP)—The Nazi air commander who directed the devastation of Warsaw and Coventry, Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring, has been put in charge of German airmen in Sicily, British informants reported today.

The move was interpreted here as possibly pointing to a stepped-up aerial offensive against Malta, possibly followed by seaborne invasion.

The 55-year-old marshal, who also figured largely in aerial operations against France and Russia, is expected to increase coordination between the German and Italian air forces, both of which operate from Sicily.

Malta has been raided daily since he took charge of Sicily, and the rocky Mediterranean island fortress has become known as one of the most bombed spots on earth.

Today was a typical one on the life of the battered island—the Germans blasted away without pause from dawn to dusk and in so doing lost three planes for certain and two probablys and six others were damaged. Not a single RAF fighter was lost.

Soo Locks Opened For Early Record

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 23 (AP)—Establishing a record for early opening for lake navigation here, Great Lakes vessels today followed ice-breakers through the locks.

In 1902, shipping began on April 1, the earliest previous date for boat traffic here. This mark was tied in 1941.

BABY DROWNS

Pontiac, Mich., March 23, (AP)—Two year old Judith Warden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Warden, drowned today in Lake Oakland within 25 feet of her home. It was the third drowning this year in Oakland county.

ATTACK UPON RUSSIANS NOT LIKELY MOVE

BIG INROADS MADE ON INVADER'S AIR POWER

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Much as Herr Hitler might like to see Japan strike next at Russia to match his promised summer "annihilation" campaign, it seems a remote possibility, at least until the Japanese-United Nations battle of air attrition in the south is fought out.

Current war accounts from Burma and Australia disclose heavy inroads on Japanese air power. To replace lost craft on fronts so distant from Japan is a growing problem for the foe. And it would seem almost a suicidal move for Tokyo to open another major front—against Russia—unless her planes had secured domination of the skies definitely elsewhere, which clearly they have not.

Ship Shortage Felt

In reply to any Berlin pleas for joint action against Russia, Tokyo could list very substantial aid already given the Germans indirectly. Not least of these is the fact that Pacific sea lanes for supplying Russia with war gear were closed automatically with Japanese entry into the struggle. That, coupled with forced diversion of British war efforts to the Pacific, and the tremendously increased strain on shipping to keep United Nation supply lines funtioning in both the Pacific and the Atlantic, probably is the role Tokyo agreed to play.

There are now intimations that Japan is suffering from sea attrition herself. It is increasingly difficult for her to find shipping to feed her southern fronts, which are nowhere nearer home than 3,500 miles and separated by the 4,000 mile span from Burma to New Guinea.

Bait For Norwegians

A hint of that came in a Norwegian broadcast urging Norwegian flag craft in the Pacific theater to put into Japanese or Japanese-controlled ports with the lure of triple pay promises to crew. How many Norwegian craft are in those waters is as problematical as the question how they might react to this Nazi-inspired Japanese bid for their services.

In any case, weather conditions at this season around the north end of the Sea of Japan do not seem such as to invite any early Japanese move against Russia. Nor has there been any intimation that the Russians have reduced their Siberian defense force materially to provide means of pressing the winter attack in the west.

Whatever Japan's ultimate intentions toward Russia, at the moment she is meeting the most serious opposition of her conquest crusade both in Burma and Australia. As yet she has failed to achieve air superiority conclusively on either front or to disrupt seriously allied communication lines in either the Pacific or Indian ocean.

Optimism In Pacific

All previous Japanese victories, Hong Kong, Manila, Singapore, Java, were based on immediate seizure of air control to shelter her invasion fleets or forward-surging armies. Mass attacks by air upon allied bases in Burma and on New Guinea indicate desperate efforts to repeat that technique.

It is a more difficult task now at the end of a long sea communication lines and against mounting counter air offensives by the allies. A toll of nearly 50 Japanese

Local Harbor Open, Tugs Batter Through To Docks, First Ore Carrier Arrives

The Escanaba harbor is open.

The Wisconsin and the Montana, stubby but powerful tugs which left Sturgeon Bay, Wis., last Thursday to open the local harbor for ore shipping, reached the Chicago and North Western railway ore docks in North Escanaba late yesterday afternoon. It was the earliest opening of the harbor since 1878 when ships entered on March 5.

A short distance behind the tugs, towering high above them, was the J. H. Sheadle, ore boat of the Cleveland Cliffs company. She left Chicago on Thursday night and was the first ore carrier to enter the Escanaba harbor this year.

Hundreds of motorists drove to the Escanaba waterfront Sunday to get a closeup of the sturdy tugs as they battered their way slowly but steadily against the two feet of ice covering Little Bay de Noc.

Escanabans will read in their newspapers this spring and summer far less about the vessels plying the Great Lakes with tons of Ore destined for steel plants throughout the midwest. Government censorship will prevent boat schedules from being published. Michigan state troops are guarding the local ore docks against sabotage, closing the piers to all but those with business there and with proper identification.

Escanaba docks of the CNW handled 4,512,482 tons of U. P. iron ore last eyar, while the Lake Superior area as a whole shipped 80,116,000 tons. The federal government announced it hoped for nearly 90,000,000 tons of ore this year. Escanaba hit a high mark with ore shipments of well over 7,000,000 tons in 1916.

Many additional ore carriers, some of them new and others automobile carriers converted into ore freighters, will ply the lakes this year.

GOGEBIC ORE HERE

Ironwood, March 23—The Gogebic range ore shipping season got away to its earliest start in history last week with the shipment of ore by train to the docks at Escanaba. On Monday several mines are expected to ship ore to the docks at Ashland.

A steam shovel started loading ore at the Pabst mine yesterday and the ore left this afternoon at 1 o'clock for Escanaba. The mines expected to start Monday or at least early in the week include the Monertal, Cary, Eureka, Newport, Palms and Sunday lake.

The earliest date the range ore season has opened in the past is believed to have been on March 18, 1892.

SAIL FOR U. P.

Chicago, March 23—Three ships of Inland Steel company's fleet will leave Indiana Harbor at dawn Wednesday to open the 1942 Great Lakes shipping season—and join the annual race to be first to return with raw materials.

Inland shipping officials see the possibility of new records for lake shipping by bringing back limestone and iron ore as early as March. They point out that this would mean a "big jump" on raw material requirements for meeting increasing war demands.

The Phillip D. Block and the L. E. Block will sail for Marquette, Mich., to load iron ore. This is normally a four-and-a-half-day run and "with luck," Inland officials see a "chance of their returning to Indiana Harbor before March ends.

The Joseph Block will proceed to Port Inland, Mich., at the upper end of Lake Michigan, to load limestone. It is considered entirely probable that it will be back with a cargo before the month is over.

Either round trip—to Marquette or to Port Inland—if completed in March would set a new record.

"NO INFORMATION"

Milwaukee, March 23—On the west side of Jones island, where most of the ships of Milwaukee's winter fleet are moored, there was much activity Saturday. Workmen scurried about amid cables, chains, rope, lumber and cans of paint strewn about the decks.

The opening of navigation is approaching, but quite unofficially. Officially, because of wartime restrictions, there was no information as to when the ships would move. Capt. Colin C. Carlisle, port commander for the Pittsburgh Steamship Co. fleet, was firm though friendly.

"We are not permitted to give out information and we cannot let you go on the boats," he said.

In years past friendly visits with crew members stationed on the ships for the winter were possible. Sailors spun yarns in a little shack on the dock which served as an office. The atmosphere had changed. Saturday afternoon a coastguardsman with a .45 caliber service revolver straped to his thigh was a welcoming committee, friendly enough, but giving no information.

RECORD OPENING

Marquette, March 23—The car ferry Sainte Marie, utilized as an ice breaker to start the flow of upper lake iron ore to war-hungry steel mills "down below," passed through the Sault Ste. Marie locks at 2:30 Sunday afternoon to establish a record early navigation opening there.

Although the Sainte Marie headed for Whitefish Bay, Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company freighters remained in the lower St. Mary's river while the tugs Florida and Favorite undertook the task of widening the channel to permit safe passage.

The record opening—March 23—beats by nine days the previous record of April 1, established in 1902 and again in 1941.

A path already has been cleared through the Straits of Mackinac by the ice-crushing railroad carferry Sainte Marie.

Dates for opening of navigation:

1941—April 1.
1940—April 11.
1936—April 26.
1938—April 12.
1937—April 8.
1936—April 28.
1935—April 16.
1934—April 29.
1933—April 19.
1932—April 17.

RIVER ROAD IS APPROVED

Army Is Interested In Route From Sault to DeTour

DeTour, Michigan— The long-planned St. Mary's river highway which has been the dream of road boosters for many years, bids fair to become a reality soon, according to advice received from Lansing.

The U. S. Army's interest in a road bordering St. Mary's River from Sault Ste. Marie to DeTour is one of the deciding factors in the prospective outcome. The river is the border line between the United States and Canada, and a preliminary survey shows a total length for the coming road of about 50 miles. Motor travel between the Sault and DeTour now goes around via Pickford at a considerable distance from the river, while many of the river resorts and communities are reached by county roads.

The survey plans call for estimates on alternate routes at Munuscong Bay, the first a short line with causeway construction across the mouth of the bay below Munuscong village, and an alternate route around the bay which would lengthen the distance 10 or 15 miles. Advocates of the causeway point out that an ample supply of rock is available for construction purposes right at hand. Thousands of tons of rock were piled up nearby when the Neebish cut for downbound ship traffic was opened some years ago.

They also say that gates in the causeway would serve to impound and control the flow of several streams into Munuscong Bay and raise the water level to any height desired. Of late years the bay, once a famous fishing and hunting area, has been filling up with water plant growth. However, it is likely that military considerations will be the deciding factor in determining the right-of-way in the vicinity of the bay.

A through river road that will give access to much territory now closed to the public will not only afford better protection to the heavy shipping on St. Mary's river, but will open one of the last remaining areas in the Upper Peninsula to resorting and summer home building. It will also provide better travel facilities to DeTour and Drummond Island, at the mouth of the river, and form a new and desirable link in the waterway chain of highways around the peninsula.

MORE MEN WILL BE EXAMINED

Local Doctors to Check County Registrants Here Wednesday

Thirty-two more Delta county men and three transferees will be given physical examinations here Wednesday afternoon, March 25, by local draft doctors. Seven others will be asked to report for blood tests only.

The men will report at 1:30 o'clock at the office of Dr. D. H. Boyce, 1107 Ludington St. for eye, ear, nose and throat examinations which will be followed by dental examinations to be given by Dr. C. J. Kitchen at his offices in the Hughitt building, 1103 Ludington. They will then report to the Escanaba Clinical Laboratory where histories will be taken by Miss Mary Wagner of the draft board office. At three o'clock the registrants will report to the Delta County Health unit, Washington at Thirteenth avenue north where they will be given blood tests by Joseph Lequia, St. Francis hospital technician. # Parents! Give Consent To Tuberculin Tests For Pupils

"An appeal to parents of Escanaba senior and junior high school students—sign the tuberculin test approval cards issued to students yesterday and see that the cards are returned to the school today. In so doing, you will be making a real contribution toward the health and safety of all Escanaba manhood and womanhood."

That is the plea of the Delta county health department which this week administers in senior and junior high schools of the city the annual tuberculin tests which determine the susceptibility of the individual to tuberculosis.

Dr. Fred O. Tonney, department director, who discussed the values of the testing program before the Escanaba high student body yesterday, said:

"In these days of national defense, when physical fitness of the individual and the group are stressed by all our military and civilian authorities, nothing is of more importance to Delta county than the tuberculin tests. It is of equal importance in times of peace."

The tests will be administered at Escanaba high, but only to those students whose parents sign the approval cards distributed yesterday, on Wednesday. The students so tested will be examined on Friday for the purpose of determining which of the large group show positive reactions to the tests.

The junior high school students whose parents consent will receive their tests Thursday. They will be examined for reactions next Monday.

Rural Cooperation

A red mark on the arm of the student, at the point where the test serum is administered, is an indication that the student is susceptible to tuberculosis. Alone it is not proof that the individual has the disease, however.

The students who show positive reactions to the test will be taken to the Powers sanitorium, in school busses and at no expense to their parents, for chest X-rays which determine the presence or absence of pulmonary or lung tuberculosis.

Escanaba high school has 725 students. Dr. Tonney said that only 250 students were tested last year. The testing program is an annual project of the department.

However, at Nahma high school this year 98 per cent of the students received their parents' consent and were tested. At Rapid River 90 per cent were tested.

The rural areas, Dr. Tonney said, consistently manifest a greater interest in the tuberculin tests than do the cities. Parents of only 33 per cent of the students at St. Joseph high school here gave their consent.

Susceptible Group

Junior and senior high school students constitute the age groups most susceptible to tuberculosis. That factor makes the testing program of the highest importance. There are some 1,400 students in junior and senior high schools of the county.

Tuberculosis, of which there are many types, is usually marked in its first stages by such symptoms as fatigue, loss of weight, poor appetite, frequent colds, slight fever and a nervous disposition, Dr. Tonney pointed out.

Isadore S. Miller, Escanaba Laundry Founder, Is Dead

Isadore S. Miller, 71, who, with his brother, Charles Miller, established the Escanaba Steam Laundry, and operated it for many years, until its purchase by the late E. A. Grabowski, died Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of his son, Stanley Miller, at Iron Mountain.

He had been in poor health for some time, suffering from a heart ailment which caused his death.

He was born in Fond du Lac, Wis., January 25, 1871. He was assistant manager of the Ishpeming district for the Metropolitan Insurance company for fifteen years, and previous to that was local agent for five years. He retired in 1930 because of ill health.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emma Miller, four sons, Leonard of Ishpeming; Lester of Escanaba; Edward A., of Winthrop Harbor, Ill.; and Stanley of Iron Mountain; one brother, Charles Miller, of Milwaukee; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Rondeau of Marinette and Mrs. George E. McDonald of Milwaukee; and ten grandchildren.

The body was brought to Escanaba and taken to the Murphy Funeral Home to be prepared for burial. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, pending word from a son, Stanley, who is visiting in California.

SPAWNING RUNS ARE AWAITED

Special Train Will Come From Chicago for Jamboree

With net fishing for smelt in Bay de Noc virtually at an end as a result of the opening of the harbor for navigation, the harvesting of the silvery fish will experience a lull until the dipping season opens in the streams.

The annual migration of the smelt to the spawning beds in the various streams in this locality is expected to start about the first of April. Then, hundreds of fishermen will go out nightly and scoop up the fish with their long-handle dipnets. The runs will continue for about three weeks.

Word has been received by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce that a trainload of about 250 Chicagoans will come to this city for the smelt jamboree on Saturday, April 11. The excursion trip is being sponsored by Frank O. Washam, director of lunchrooms of the Chicago public schools.

B. A. Griffin, wholesale fish buyer of Milwaukee, who has been buying smelt for the past four years at Gladstone, is planning to set up a packing station at the old flooring plant between Gladstone and Kipling, as soon as the spawning runs start.

Griffin expects to have about seventy-five persons employed at packing the smelt in 10-pound boxes and a smaller package, which they will use for the first time this year. He expects to pay packers from one and a half to two cents a box. In addition, about twenty men will be employed at nailing and loading the boxes of fish. W. J. Rogers will be in charge of the operations.

The Nelson Box company of Gladstone is making a large number of the boxes being used for the packing of the fish.

FESTIVALS PLANNED

Lansing—Early breakup of lake ice may bring early runs of spawning smelt up northern streams, but the chief smelt fishing communities are playing safe by setting late dates for their festivals.

Escanaba will limit its jamboree this year to one day, April 11. Menominee and Marinette already have chosen queens for the Twin City smelt carnival April 10, 11 and 12. At Boyne City the townspeople are waiting until the spawning fish show up in the Boyne river before they invite the smelt dippers of southern Michigan to celebrate.

Conservation department records show that the peak of the run may be expected in the last week of March or the early part of April. In communities where celebrations of the runs are organized, conservation officers assist in management of the events.

Nutrition Group Will Meet Today

The Delta county national defense nutrition committee will meet with Miss Margaret Follstead, nutrition consultant with the state health department, in the office of the county school commissioner this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miss Follstead will review the work done by the recently organized committee and will offer suggestions on its future program.

Dr. Fred O. Tonney, Delta county health department director, discussed the value of good health during assembly exercises at the school yesterday.

Decatur, Ill. (AP)—The war has taken the sting out of the fraternity house paddles at James Millikin University.

The Interfraternity Council voted to eliminate the traditional "hell week" type of initiation for pledges because of "the critical nature of the times and the intensification of the university's academic program."

Warnings to Profiteers

THERE are ominous signs in the week-end news developments for war profiteers—labor unions who hold up production with demands for exorbitant wages and industries who hold up the government for excessive profits on contracts.

Union racketeers received their warning from Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, who leveled six charges against them, namely: exploitation of farmers, undemocratic procedure to insure the outcome of their elections, impeding transportation, forcing high housing costs, making businessmen employ useless labor, and restricting the efficient use of men and machines. Now, Arnold is a high official of the New Deal, which has been leaning over bbackward to befriend organized labor, and obviously he spoke with the knowledge and approval of the administration.

A dispute between management and the unions has resulted in the government's taking over the operation of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroads. Just which side was to blame for the tie-up of this small but vital link in the transportation of war goods is somewhat obscured, but the incident reveals that the government is at last beginning to get tough.

Those who impede the war production program for selfish reasons should stop and think. The tempers of the American people are rising. They have no patience for chiseling at home, while American youth is fighting day and night for a mere pittance.

No right thinking person wants to see unions suppressed like they were in Germany and other countries where dictators gained power. But the unions must rid themselves of racketeers and outrage practices, which are likely to provide the excuse for the dictatorship they fear.

In recent weeks, we have been rudely shocked by hearing impatient but well-intentioned citizens remark that we need a dictator in this country. We disagree with this contention, but we admit that it reveals how some of the people are thinking. The warning signs should be heeded by those who are causing this dissatisfaction in the public mind.

Convict Labor Helps

ONE of the interesting developments of this war is that those who have lost their freedom here for their transgressions against human society are now contributing to no small degree to the war for liberty throughout the world.

Throughout the country, inmates of prisons are making wearing apparel and other equipment for our soldiers. Prison shops have converted to war production, and are doing their bit to help win the war.

Some convicts have been appealing for a chance to join the armed forces, but this privilege has been denied them. Work in the prison shops, however, affords them an opportunity to do something for their country.

Quite likely, the men who have lost their freedom fully appreciate the feelings of those who now fighting to resist enslavement by aggressor nations.

Need Greater Now

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made that the annual Easter Seal sale will be launched this week to raise funds to give treatment and other aid to the physically handicapped.

The sale is being conducted by a local committee of the Michigan Society for Crippled Children, which is affiliated with a national organization, dedicated to the same humanitarian purposes.

In these times when there are so many fund solicitation campaigns, the average person feels he must select only the worthy causes as objects of his benevolence. In this list must be included the Easter Seal campaign for the need the funds raised thereby is now greater than ever before.

Within a short time, the nation will face the problem of returned soldiers, who will have suffered permanent physical disability in the defense of our country. It is a task which may well require not only expanded government facilities, but every existing resource of a private and volunteer nature.

For more than twenty years the National Society for Crippled Children has been engaged in organizing and fostering a program for the physical correction, education, vocational rehabilitation, and employment of physically handicapped persons. It stands ready to accept the great responsibilities which unfortunately are bound to come out of the world-wide war in which America now finds herself engaged.

Form Contract Pool

THE Green Bay Association of Commerce announced Saturday that more than a dozen machine shops and other plants with tool making equipment in the Green Bay area have formed a pool to negotiate for war contracts.

The move is similar to that which is being taken in many other communities of America. One machine shop, employing a few men, is in hardly no position to obtain contracts from the government or the large prime contractors, but by coordination of a group of these small plants, many of which are either idle or partially used, it becomes a different story.

It doesn't take an efficiency expert to tell us that idle tools are things of joy to our enemies. Dull chisels, rusty saws and ments of war. One of the greatest stores of idle tools and labor dies idle, or soon will, in the 44,000 commercial garages of the nation.

The War Production Board estimates that between 500 and 1,000 of these garages, fully equipped and manned with skilled labor, have been converted to war work. The others should be put to work as soon as possible. Production would be increased, considerable unemployment would be averted, and best of all, we would keep 'em working to ax the axis.

Why Sugar Rationing?

WE still hear some folks asking why the government is placing restrictions on the use of sugar.

It is not so much that there is less sugar available than heretofore, but that there is a need for increased stocks now that this country has assumed the role of being the arsenal of the democracies. Sugar is made from the same raw material as alcohol, and alcohol is one of the essential raw materials used in making explosives.

Without explosives, and plenty of them, there can be no Allied victory. So every citizen who restricts his use of sugar not only improves his health but makes a direct contribution to the armed forces which are fighting that he may retain the privilege of eating.

WHY SHOULD INDIA FIGHT
(Green Bay Press Gazette)

It is hard to convince a subject race that one master may be worse than another. That is why India has been hanging back in rather surly fashion from the full sort of cooperation with England the latter so much desires.

In striking contrast to India is the whole-hearted support and fishing cooperation given by the Filipinos to General MacArthur. The Filipinos asked for full liberation and we gave it to them. We felt at the time that they were probably unfit to govern themselves as well as we could govern them, but that is a feeling that the master is always likely to honestly cherish toward a subject people.

India, in all its long history dating back to the time of the glorious Greek republics, has failed to give the least sign that it could take care of itself, and yet, neither have the Filipinos. At least the people of the Philippines know that the Jap brings them slavery and that under their arrangement with us they are now virtually, and in four more years would be fully free. So they fight like demons.

Would it be such a bad and dangerous movement for London to offer the same conditions to India?

EDDIE O'HARE
(Chicago Sun)

Heroes come thick and fast in this war. The latest is young Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, who shot down six Japanese bombers in one engagement over the Pacific.

"Just an average boy," his mother said when she heard the news. And then she added, quite as matter-of-factly as though he had come from the grocer's with too few eggs: "I understand that two of them got away. He should have got those, too."

That is the nice part about it. Eddie O'Hare is just "an average American." Before they are through with us, the axis and the Japs will find out that there are several million more where he came from.

Foreign News Analyzed

BY CONSTANTINE BROWN

Nazi penetration of France's North African colonial empire has accelerated in recent months. Hobnailed "Nazi tourists", who turned up in large numbers last fall in Tunisia, have appeared in droves in Algeria and Morocco since Gen. Maxime Weygand was compelled to relinquish his post as Vichy pro-consul of the territories. They are all of the type seen in Norway, Rumania and Bulgaria during the months which preceded the occupation of those countries by the Nazis,—young men of military bearing, obviously Hitler's soldiers.

Their officers, who still wear civilian clothes, have vast sums of money to spend, and are spending it lavishly. Sabaran excursions in buses are organized weekly to show the "tourists" the beauties of the desert. They remain sometimes several days at the headquarters of the various Arab chieftains and shower them with all kinds of presents as special tokens of consideration from the Fuehrer. Money, even gold, is of little value among the tribesmen, but cloth, tobacco, guns and other commodities are highly appreciated and the "tourists" are lavishing them on their hosts.

—"TOURISTS" NOT BARRED—

Gen. Auguste Nogues, the French resident-general, who was very punctilious about enforcing the armistice terms which barred Germans from Morocco, has begun to shut his eyes to the presence of these healthy "tourists". This is particularly true since Gen. Weygand was disgraced and placed under virtual arrest in his residence at Grasse in Southern France.

Despite Marshal Petain's friendship for Gen. Weygand many of his aides have been arrested and his personal aide-de-camp has been sentenced to a 15-year jail term for unpatriotic activities. The sentence was suspended after the marshal personally intervened.

The port of Dakar is reliably reported to be the Axis' principal submarine base. All communications between that West African port and the rest of the world have been suspended and it requires a special permit from Vichy to visit that town. Permits are no longer being issued, but, according to reliable information from persons who have penetrated the forbidden area without permits, German submarines are at home in the well-protected harbor.

Besides a few warships there are strong coastal defenses to repulse attack from the sea. The heavy guns of the battleship Richelieu, which rides at anchor in the outer harbor, have been put on shore to strengthen defenses of the base. The Richelieu has been repaired after being badly damaged by the British in 1941, but her speed is gone; hence she is not expected to go to sea or into a repair yard so long as the British control the Atlantic. She is, however, acting as a floating fortress and implements the shore defenses of Dakar with her remaining 15 six-inch guns. Sailors from ships which German submarines torpedo in the Atlantic are brought to Dakar and sometimes they manage to make their way out of the city and south into British territory. German submarines are reported to be using Dakar both as a refueling base and as a resting place for crews which have been long at sea.

It is apparently true that very few Nazi uniforms are to be seen in Morocco and Algeria, but there are plenty in Tunisia. The number of "tourists' in French North Africa is conservatively estimated at between 30,000 and 40,000 men.

—ARMS SMUGGLED IN—

Large heavy crates are reaching the German missions set up, according to the provisions of the armistice terms, to supervise the disarmament of French African troops. They are believed to contain "agricultural implements" in the form of rifles, machineguns and ammunition.

Much of the gasoline and oil received in three large cargoes from the United States between April and July of last year has been sent to Field Marshal Rommel's forces in Libya. But a certain amount was kept at Dakar and is reported being used by German submarines.

Washington's sudden change in policy toward the African possessions of Vichy has perturbed both French and Germans. Arrangements had been made in January to send some ships with foodstuffs, tobacco and other essentials to Casablanca and Dakar. But after the unsatisfactory replies from Vichy to the State Department's request for explanation of the battleship Dunkerque's return to Toulon a move which was made in spite of agreements that we would be informed beforehand of her movements—the ships never left the United States.

The arguments of French diplomats that we were playing into Nazi hands by giving the impression that we were attempting to starve the French population no longer impressed the State Department, which ordered all shipments to territories under Vichy's control stopped.

Whether the same policy will apply to Martinique and Guadeloupe is uncertain. The French authorities in those islands, and especially Admiral Henri Robert, who commands the three ship fleet in the West Indies, have hitherto been cooperative. But there are growing indications that German submarines operating in Caribbean waters now may be sneaking into Martinique's ports for supplies and especially information, despite the vigilance maintained by American consuls and naval officers whom Admiral Robert has permitted to reside in various sections of the islands.

Answers To Questions

A reader can get the answer to any question of fact by writing The Escanaba Daily Press Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. Please enclose three (3) cents for reply.

Q. What are the earliest and latest dates on which Easter can fall? D. I. J.

A. The date of Easter may vary between March 22 and April 25, over a period of 35 days.

Q. How long has infantile paralysis been recognized as a disease? C. H. A.

A. It is not definitely known whether infantile paralysis is an ancient or a comparatively new disease, but Egyptian engraving reveals deformities which are cited as indications that this disease was in existence two to three thousand years before Christ. The first unquestioned description of infantile paralysis was written by Michael Underwood in 1784.

Q. What is the largest structure ever built by man? W. H. D.

A. It is, probably, the Grand Coulee Dam. If it were a hollow shell, it would hold every person in the United States.

Q. Is the vanilla plant native to the United States? A. J. C.

A. The tropical vanilla plant does not grow in this country, hence we are entirely dependent on imports for true vanilla extract.

Q. What etcher executed the "Praying Hands"? V. N.

A. This is a celebrated work of Albrecht Durer's.

Q. How long has the island of Madagascar belonged to France? M. O'B.

A. Madagascar has been a French Protectorate since 1890. In 1896 the Hova dynasty was suppressed and Queen Ranavalona III, who had reigned since 1883, was exiled to Algeria, the administration being turned over to a Governor-General.

Q. Does it harm an electric refrigerator to turn it off for any length of time when not in use? O. P. E.

A. The National Bureau of Standards says it would expect no effect on the mechanism of a mechanical refrigerator due to a period of idleness except that the refrigerant gas may leak out around the crank shaft seal of "open" models when the seal is deprived of the oil which it receives when the machine is in operation.

Q. What prayer did Lord Nelson write before the battle of Trafalgar? D. R. P.

A. "May the great God whom I worship grant to my country and for the benefit of Europe in general, a great and glorious victory, and may no misconduct in anyone tarnish it; and may humanity after victory be the predominant feature in the British fleet! For myself individually, I commit my life to Him that made me; and may His blessing alight on my endeavors for serving my country faithfully. To Him I resign myself, and the just cause which is entrusted to me to defend. Amen! Amen! Amen!"

Q. What are the weapons that are used so effectively by the natives of the Philippines? T. M.

A. Various primitive weapons are used including the bow, war club, spear, blowgun, kris, and bolo. Most effective of the native weapons are the parang or "kris" of the Moro—essentially a fine, two-edged sword which can be terribly effective in action — and the bolo, a combination implement and weapon with one cutting edge which is in general use among the Luzon tribes. The kris also is found in the form of a dagger. The Smithsonian Institution in Washington has, probably, the finest collection of Philippine weapons in the world.

Q. Where is the "West Point of the Air"? F. B. E.

A. Randolph Field, San Antonio, Texas, is called the "West Point of the Air."

Hollywood Column

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—Just about the unhappiest individual I've met in months is a promoter who up to now has dealt exclusively in "commercial tieups" with Hollywood. His job has included all manner of finagling and wangling—from securing outright endorsements of products by stars to the arrangement for the use of certain easily recognized articles in motion pictures.

Now, he confesses sadly, he may have to find another racket. Automobiles, refrigerators and radios used to be the mainstays of his business, but those and many other luxury items either are out of production or are so curtailed that movie star approval of them doesn't seem important anymore.

"Of course there are cosmetics and a few other things, but a fella can't get a picture every day of Marlene Dietrich brushing her teeth with Scourem dentifrice, or of Greta Garbo taking a bath with Slipsy-Grispy soap and saying, 'Ay vant to be alone now, but coom to see me in my new peecture'."

Cigarets still would be all right for exploitation tie-ups, the agent said, except that most movie stars aren't supposed to smoke. Also, the public now wants to see soldiers and sailors in advertisements.

FAKE FRONTS

The studios have become pretty cautious about giving free advertising in movies. When an actor is shown opening a package of cigarets, the outer cover usually reveals a non-existent brand. Same way with canned goods on shelves in kitchen scenes, or else the cans are placed with the labels upside down. Automobiles used in movies ordinarily are disguised as to make by false insignia.

The studios themselves have few compunctions about advertising their own products on the screen. Next time you see a heroine reading a book, if the title is decipherable, you can bet the actress soon will be appearing in a movie of the same name. Billboards and theater marquees visible in the background of various scenes also are used to plug forthcoming attractions.

Maybe you'd be inclined to doubt the commercial importance of such publicity plugs, but manufacturers as well as movie companies long have known that the public is alert to an amazing amount of detail on the screen and is impressed by it, too. People are constantly writing in to ask where they can get furniture or kitchen gadgets or clothes that they have admired on the screen.

The wolf that comes to many doors has just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is my tax money.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY PEARSON AND ALLEN

Washington — One amazing incident of the Pear Harbor attack can now be told. Already announced in the Roberts Report was the fact that a small Japanese submarine was sunk off the entrance of Pearl Harbor at 6:33 A. M., about one hour before Jap airplanes came over.

The submarine has since been raised, and its navigation chart and log, translated into English, showed a remarkable voyage.

The submarine had actually made a complete tour inside this vital naval base, had escaped unseen, and the captain had noted the location of each U. S. vessel together with the time he passed it.

The chart showed the Jap sub had arrived off the entrance of Pearl Harbor at 1:50 A. M., Dec 7—a few hours before the air attack. It waited at the harbor's mouth until 4:20 A. M., when the net was lowered to let a garbage scow out.

Then the sub sneaked in. The commander noted the location of the battleships Utah and the West Virginia—the former announced as sunk. He marked down the positions of twelve destroyers, which he said were huddled close together; also three gunboats, and the cruiser Trenton. In another place he noted "large white man's house."

The chart showed that he passed out of the harbor unseen at 5:25 A. M. and apparently lay off the harbor's mouth for the next hour while he radioed the exact location of each ship to the awaiting Jap air carriers.

About the only thing the Jap commander failed to put in his log was that at 6:33 A. M. he was sunk.

—BIKE-GO-ROUND—

At a cocktail party the other day, Leon Henderson and Senator Burnet Maybank of South Carolina demonstrated how to ride the host's new birthday bicycle . . . . . But Henderson looked at the tires, shook his head, and said, "Guayule" . . . . . Congresswoman Edith Rogers and Cabinet-wife Mrs. Claude Wickard declined to perform on the bike, though Mrs. Rogers declared she expects to ride a bicycle to work at the Capitol soon . . . . . Mrs. Wickard made Claude promise to give her a bike for her next birthday . . . . . Mrs. Warren Pierson recalled that her last bicycling efforts—in Bermuda—frightened all the horses on the island.

—UNREPORTED SPEECH—

For more than a week the halls of Congress have echoed with heated demands for legislation abolishing the 40-hour week and prohibiting strikes in war plants. These speeches have been widely reported.

But there was a speech made in the House the other day about which not one line went out. As far as the public is concerned, the speech was never made. But if you'll turn to pages 2687-91 of the Congressional Record you'll find the hottest, most sensational charges heard on Capitol Hill in a long time.

The speaker was Representative Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, who was a successful business man before he came to Congress. These are the bombshells—so mysteriously unreported—which he tossed:

1. That the labor crackdown furor was a carefully planned scheme initiated by certain business elements.

2. That its purpose was to divert public attention and anger from the disclosures of huge war profiteering, refusal to convert plants to war production, and the undercover operations of key-placed dollar-a-year men to protect the private interests of industries from which they are drawing big salaries.

3. That Arthur Bunker, head of the WPB Division of Aluminum and Magnesium, is receiving $60,000 a year from a New York banking firm, and that he has prevented the construction of a low-cost magnesium plant while vigorously aiding a high-cost project owned by the giant Dow Chemical Co.

Anderson told the House he was firmly convinced that much of the uproar against labor was instigated by secret organized activity. Editorials were "planted" and Congress was deluged with inspired letters demanding drastic measures, he declared.

"The chambers of commerce in my State, and I suppose in yours," said Anderson, "are being harried into special meetings to damn labor for not working 24 hours a day. But what is labor to produce? War goods? Oh, no. To produce enough radios, refrigerators and rayon hose to stock stores throughout the war, from factories that have not been converted to military purposes. Do our people know that today, 3 1-2 months after Pearl Harbor, and for a month and a half yet to come, there are hundreds of vital plants that will not make desperately needed war supplies?"

We have to thank the Japs for one thing —they certainly have helped us appreciate the Chinese.

They said, "We'd fight like demi-gods, but we can't face such fearful odds. The enemy has tanks and planes more so than call it done." Some fellow said, "Why battle fate? I know the odds are much too great. I know that life's too hard for me, so I'll sit back and let it be." Then he retreated from the fight, while others bat-

Men who accomplished large success, o'er-

Nazis Launch Steel Production On Large Scale

Cleveland, March 23 — Steel magazine, the national authority in the steel industry, reports exclusive today that Germany is exerting a tremendous effort in its industry to prepare for Hitler's spring drive.

Quoting J. A. Horton, Birmingham, England correspondent, Steel says, "Reports from Germany received by the British Ministry of Economic Warfare indicate that a tremendous production drive is in progress, probably presaging a large-scale offensive. Recent changes in the German civil constitution have been undertaken in order to increase production to the maximum and reduce civilian consumption to a minimum. A minister of rationalization has been appointed. The Germans are closing down textile mills in order to turn over workers to war production. A corresponding drive to increase the labor force is in progress, and German newspapers are forecasting the conscription of foreign workers in occupied countries. Factory work is tending more and more to be staggered owing to the shortage of electrical power. Thirty German propoganda fairs which were to have been held all over Europe this year have been canceled."

Having Troubles

Germany is having great difficulty with production in occupied countries, the magazine continues, with slow-down of labor and inability to get materials as major factors in her failure to greatly increase production from these sources.

For example, Steel says, "Recent reports from France show the effect of the war upon the iron and steel works. At the annual meeting of one of the big companies it was reported that only a few of the plants—and these mainly in the unoccupied zone are able to work more or less normally, yet these plants had record outputs during 1939 and in the first half of 1940. Some French blast furnaces in the East had to be blown out recently owing to shortage of coke.

Bradley Hits Gov't Propaganda Expense

BY REP. FRED BRADLEY

Much too often here in Washington we hear someone remark that the folks back home are too complacent about this war. In my opinion that is a perfectly absurd statement. The trouble with this country today is that there is too much complacency in Washington—in the executive offices, in the Congress and above all in the bureaucracy in Washington. It goes without saying that there are too many people in Washington today literally lying awake nights trying to figure out ways to spend more money, above all trying to figure out how to justify their own continuance on the Government payroll. It is about time that we catch hold of our senses and put a stop to this nonsense.

Today we are in a war to save Uncle Sam—to save our government—to save our homes—to save our lives, and yet we are spending about 50 million dollars a year in Washington simply to tell you what a great all beneficent government we have and how wonderful each of our governmental departments is functioning. Back in 1913, Congress passed a law prohibiting the expenditure of any public money for the salary of "publicity agents" unless specifically authorized. Consequently in every departmental appropriation bill which comes before the Congress, there is invariably a huge item for its own Propaganda Bureau or for publicity or printing and binding. Today in Washington there are almost 3,000 full time and almost 32,000 part time employees engaged in this huge, wasteful, sales propaganda program. We are paying these people almost 20 million per year in salaries and they are nothing more than press agents for the various governmental bureaus. And the Government Printing Office is the largest printing establishment in the entire world.

Money for Publicity

This week the House has been considering the 1943 Appropriation Bill for the Department of Agriculture. It costs the taxpayers of this nation almost 12 million dollars a year to support this Department's publicity bureau, which sends out tons and tons of mail, such as news releases, posters, booklets, circulars, statistics, reports, Yearbooks, and the like. Some of this material is passed out by "hand-outs' here in Washington, but most of it is distributed under government franked postage. So in addition to this cost of salaries and printing, we find an additional direct charge of about 20 million dollars which is credited to the Post Office Department for the cost of handling this franked propaganda. If you had to pay postage on it, it would cost you about 52 million per year.

While I am commenting on postage, I know some of you will think—'what about the Congressional franking privilege'? That also is too high, but the cost to the taxpayer for the Congressional franking privilege is but 2.78 percent of the total government charge for franked postage. Ten years ago this used to cost about $810,000 a year; since then—with the coming of the so-called pressure groups agitated by the suggestions over the radio and thru the press 'to write your Congressman', the cost of Congressional mail has increased to about $860,000 a year; but—and this is noteworthy—in the same 10-year period, the cost of handling the bureaucracy mail has increased almost 400 percent. Back in 1933, the average cost of sending out these government booklets and propaganda matter was about 10 million dollars per year, whereas last-year it was around 43 million dollars.

Erecting New Building

Congress was much aroused this week when its Members saw being erected right in the heart of Washington, one block from the White House, a temporary wooden structure, which we are told is to house the Information Bureau of the Office of Government Reports. The $600,000 estimated for this construction was made available and authorized by the President from a blank check appropriation previously granted the President by the Congress. This information bureau is said to be imperatively needed in order to assist business men coming to the Capitol in locating their proper Government contacts and thus complete their business without the loss of valuable time. This might sound reasonable to some who do not know that every Department has its own Information Bureau. This is just another example for waste and extravagance and duplicating of bureaus. You may be certain that the establishment of this new Bureau will not eliminate existing Departmental Information Offices. That is one thing which isn't done in Washington—we never fire anyone. The Congress, however, which had no say-so about the authorization of this new structure is now asked to provide a little sum of $235,000 to pay the salaries of new clerks which are going to man this office. Yes, we never fire—we just hire and hire. Reduce nonwar expenditures and eliminate all non-essential projects is the demand of the nation's taxpayers; concentrate everything on the war effort; build more planes, guns, tanks, ships; if increased appropriations are necessary to win this war, we shall see a way of meeting our taxes say our citizens. Indeed our people are far from complacent. It is Washington that is boondoggling, constructing unnecessary buildings, hiring more and more workers when present staffs, if efficiently managed, could well handle the extra work. If our Government continues its present waste of public funds, I do not see how the people in Washington—in Congress and out of Congress—can conscientiously expect our citizens to continue patriotically to buy Victory bonds and Defense Savings Stamps, to pay higher and ever higher taxes, to sacrifice personal conveniences. We have a war on our hands which will not be easily won. Washington, from all appearances, has not heard of it yet, and it is indeed time for Washington to wake up to its full responsibilities.

HOBBIES USED IN WAR WORK

Home Workshops Making Airplane, Bombsight and Gun Parts

If you own or operate machine tools as a hobby you can help defense production—and get paid for it, according to an article on "Home Workshops Go To War," in The Reader's Digest for April. Many hoppyists now are using lathes in basements and garages for producing machine parts and other high precision work, says Arthur Grahame, author of the article.

These basement subcontractors were first called to arms by Stanley Carlson, a small machinery manufacturer in New Jersey, who needed additional machine tools to fill excess orders for airplane, gun and bombsight parts. His own plants and machinery, and all subcontractors in the region were working almost beyond capacity. A solution to his problem presented itself in the person of one of his machinists whose hobby involved a lathe and a basement workshop. By working at home, at Carlson's suggestion, this machinist released his lathe at the plant for additional output. Hobbyist friends of the machinist offered to help him in his work, and presently this idea mushroomed out to other home-workshop owners. Today, Grahame says, about 150 men give full or part time to work farmed out by Carlson.

The subcontractors working in their basements and garages have a lower percentage of rejections for faulty craftsmanship than the men in his plant, says Carlson. One of the best of these "converted" hobbyists was a lace importer when the war started. Another made scientific apparatus for a university; and another is a foreman in a food products plant who works 25 additional hours a week on airplane tools in his basement shop.

The Home Workshop Subcontracting Plan has proved so effective that the government is introducing it all over the country.

When the doctor found the house dark and the doors locked he summoned police, who gained entrance through the basement. Miss Brumsted was found unconscious on the floor near the telephone and was taken to the hospital. Neighbors told authorities that she had asked help at noon to unlock her door when she complained of numbness in her hands and arms.

Miss Brumstead was born in Hermansville March 4, 1880, and had lived in Marinette for about 20 years. She was a retired school teacher.

Survivors are three sisters and a brother, Mrs. Edwin Schumann and Otto Brumsted of Milwaukee; Mrs. Alfred Bailey of Chicago; and Mrs. William Radue of Hermansville.

Middle East Will Be Battle Ground

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Cairo—This is one of the important military centers of the war, although it does not seem so to the visitor. Once a tourist mecca for Americans, Cairo is now a leave center for troops, thousands of whom come in for a respite from hard desert fighting.

CLAPPER

This ancient city seems remote from the war despite many uniforms, and despite the fact that this is headquarters for the British Middle East Command and the American North African Mission, which covers all the Middle East and is destined to be one of the major funnels for the American war effort.

The city is as crowded as Washington. It is difficult to find seats in restaurants and bars. Hotel rooms are at a premium. Telephone service has not been able to keep up with the expansion of activities. It takes weeks to get phones in.

There are three meatless days a week, yet unlike in England, there is plenty of excellent food and fruit, because local produce abounds.

Like American Convention

The blackout is not as tight as in London, so it is possible to get around at night. But on the basis of completely secondhand reports, Cairo nightlife is not what might be inferred from "Cairo" sideshows in the United States. Cairo fan dancers must all have gone to America.

Soldiers on leave gang in the cafes, singing around bars. It sounds like an American convention. The big holiday sightseeing trip is to the pyramids and Sphinx, 15 minutes from the city. Soldiers come in from desert posts and spend Sunday in an exhausting climb to the top of the Great Pyramid, only 100 feet lower than the Washington monument. They scramble up over stones a yard square until the sloping wall of the pyramid appears from the top like a sheer drop down the side of the Empire State Building. It takes hardy youngsters to do it.

Shuffling around the streets, cafes and courtyards are Egyptians in long gowns and fezzes, Moslem women with black veils over their noses. Taxi horns hoot incessantly. Cairo is a very noisy city. The traffic is a mixture of second-hand Paris taxis, carts slogging camels and pedestrians swarming over streets and sidewalks.

Egypt Not at War

Though diplomatic relations have been broken with Germany, Italy, Vichy and Japan, Egypt is not at war. Perhaps that is why Cairo seems so remote from the war.

The desert fighting is 500 miles away, just beyond the Egyptian border, but except for shelters and other protection, there is no sign in Cairo of any connection with the hostilities. Under the treaty with Egypt, the British have the right to use Egyptian facilities, and the British actually afford the only protection Egypt has, while creating a boom for Cairo merchants. There is also the prospect of an increasing number of Americans being based here, because this is the most central point for transportation and communications covering the whole area.

Thus modern warfare comes back to the scene of history's many early struggles over control of Western civilization. Soldiers fresh from planes and desert tanks climb over the ancient stones of the Great Pyramid, built more than 5,000 years ago by a king who wanted to be remembered. He is remembered for using 250,000 slaves and 30 years to construct a monument to his vanity. We used to think that was a crime against humanity, but no more.

Cheops used his own slaves and stayed in his own territory. He was not trying to conquer the whole world, enslaving other peoples and bringing misery and sorrow to almost every nation. The aged guide who showed me around said kings were more intelligent in ancient times. I think he meant that it would be better for the world if Hitler, instead of trying to impose a new order by butchery, devoted himself to building a tomb that would last as long as the pyramids. By so doing, he would be remembered just as long and more favorably. But there is no escape through such thoughts.

This place doesn't want war any more than America wanted it, or England, or Russia. The waves Hitler has set loose wash over those who try to flee, and leaves often more miserable than those who resist.

It seems in Cairo that the Middle East must again be a decisive battlefield.

DISMISS AUTO THEFT CHARGE

Couillard Is Guilty of A&B; Ordered to Leave City

A charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile made against Grant Couillard was dismissed here yesterday on the motion of Prosecuting Attorney Clyde McGonagle when the 32 year old Wells man was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette. Couillard pleaded guilty, however, to a charge of assault and battery on the person of his wife and was given a 90 day suspended sentence with the provision that he leave the city at once.

It appeared that Couillard had the permission of the owner of the machine which, it was originally alleged, he stole, last Wednesday. When he was arrested at Green Bay late last week he had in his possession the copper penny with which, he said, the car's ignition system was operated. This "key" and the permission of the car's owner, Norman Ellingsen, 1003 Stephenson avenue, was given him at the same time, he claimed.

"No provision has been made as yet whereby list "B" eligibles can secure new tubes, the question still being under consideration," Washington rationing officials recently informed the state rationing administrator who had asked for an opinion in view of the fact that revised tire rationing regulations made no provision for tubes for the eligibles in "B" classification which covers passenger car retreads and obsolete tires.

Rotarians Shown Fire Bomb Movie

An educational film showing what to do in case of fire caused by incendiary bombs was exhibited to Rotarians at yesterday's meeting. The film displayed how to extinguish the bomb itself as well as how to treat fires caused by the bomb.

Previous to viewing the film, Brad Loveland, high school teachtr explained some of the chemistry of bomb constructions. The two types of bombs now in use are the magnesium bomb and the sodium. Two other types, potassium and oil bombs are still in the experimental stage, the speaker said.

The only way to extinguish incendiary bombs is to sprinkle with a light spray of water or to sprinkle lightly with sand until the flame has died and then remove from building. Making sure that any other fire set by the bomb has been extinguished.

The type of incendiary bomb now in use weighs a little over two pounds and is capable of penetrating a 4-inch concrete roof. It is composed of magnesium and thermit and creates a heat of 4,500 degrees fahreinheit, which is much higher than the kindling point of any flamable material it might come in contact with.

The movie will be shown at the City Hall, council rooms, tonight, Wednesday and Thursday, for the benefit of the public.

John Edick, scoutmaster of Rotary troop 53, was a guest of the club.

Ray Gasman, fire department member asked for volunteers to take training and to later work with the city fire department in case of air raids and the dropping of incendiary bombs.

When not in use, spare tires should be stored in a dark, cool place and away from direct light, oil and grease, under the influence of which rubber quickly deteriorates.

Same General Plan To Be Followed In Next Registration

Local draft board officials said yesterday that approximately 50 per cent of the number of men registered in the third selective service registration will be registered in the next registration on Monday, April 27, when all men from 45 to 65 will register.

Those in this group required to register will be men who were 45 years of age on or before February 16, 1942, and men who have not reached their 65th birthday anniversary by April 27, 1942.

State selective service officials said that the same general plan of organization will be followed in the fourth registration as was used in the third. Probably the same county registrars and clerks will again cooperate in the coming registration.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

An Unfortunate Little Quarrel

A quarrel in our ranks at this moments sets the teeth on edge. I refer, of course, to the quarrel of Mr. John Curtin, Prime Minister of Australia, with Winston Churchill. And it is difficult to see just why Mr. Curtin chose to publicize it in quite so flamboyant a manner. In this quarrel, unfortunately, America has a role. For the quarrel is over the fact that the Australian envoy in Washington, Mr. Richard G. Casey has been appointed by Churchill to a seat in the British War Cabinet.

Dorothy Thompson

Mr. Curtin, who opposed the shift, thinks that Mr. Casey's post in Washington is more important than a seat in the central British War Cabinet.

Our role in this is not very agreeable, for the general import of the matter seems to be that Mr. Curtin is playing to the United States against London, and I suppose we are expected to be flattered, and Britain to be a little humiliated. The extension of the British War Cabinet to include an Australian is a compliment to Australia, and the offer to Mr. Casey, who knows the United States extremely well seems intelligent, for it puts into the British councils a man with close American connections. This undoubtedly influenced Churchill's thinking on the matter.

Also Mr. Curtin has introduced a personal and partisan note into the matter, making the quarrel appear as one between a labor-leader Prime Minister and a "Tory" Prime Minister of Britain.

On this point its hould be said that Mr. Churchill has disregarded partisanship in the appointment of his government; that some of the most important posts in his cabinet are held by Labor Party men; that Sir Sstafford Cripps, who has been made second in the cabinet only to Mr. Churchill and intrusted with a most important mission to India, certainly is no "Tory" but is a little to the left of the majority Labor Party.

Actually, Mr. Churchill, like President Roosevelt, has had the instinct to put himself above partisanship.

And, unfortunately, the same cannot be said of Mr. Curtin. Mr. Curtin has a majority of just one in his parliament, and yet he has never extended his cabinet to include his opponents.

There is another question of principle involved: It appears that Mr. Churchill approached Mr. Casey directly, securing his consent, instead of asking the Australian government to appoint a member to the British War Cabinet. Mr. Curtin thinks that he should have had the sole selection of the member.

Normally, this would no doubt have been the proper protocol. But it is extremely important that the man selected should be one with whom the British Cabinet is certain it can cooperate. And in war the responsible leader must act, and not spend his time and his energies in negotiations of minor importance. So, on the whole, Mr. Curtin's clamor seems pretty small potatoes.

But at any rate, Australia, who in her history has been rather isolationist, now is crying for help. And Australia needs help. She is ill prepared for this war. Until the entrance of Japan, Australia had never introduced conscription; her war expenditures were way below the level of Canada's; he immigration policy, maintained by a labor government axious to keep up high wages, has kept the Australian population under ten million in a continental country, and these things have weakened her defense against the masses of Japan. With a little more foresight, and imagination, and less egotism, Australia could have been a major power in the Pacific.

But obviously this is no time for a criticism of past policies—for what nation, reviewing its immediate past, but can find grounds for self criticism? On the other hand this is also no time for further egotism—for the advancement of the theory that there is one point on the globe that has to be defended at all costs no matter what happens elsewhere. We are all going to win or lose together.

Mr. Curtin seems to fear that Britain, off the north west coast of Europe, is more interested in European affairs than in the Pacific and is concentrating on defending herself first.

Or, Mr. Curtin seems to fear that Britain, by sending Mr. Casey as a member of the British War Cabinet to Cairo, has in mind to forestall the juncture of Japan and Germany in the Middle East. And all this seems to be less important than the immediate defene of Australia. Actually, it is all part of the defense of Australia, as the defense of Australia is part of the total war.

And Mr. Curtin apparently thinks that if he has a very energetic representative in Washington, one with the best of contacts to American personalities, it could influence the whole strategy of the war here, in the interests of Australia.

That is understandable too, but in thsi he is wrong. The United States intends to make every effort as far as Australia is concerned, no matter who is Australia's Ambassador to Washington—or whether there is any at all.

For our immediate and long range interests are involved. Our relations with Australia are established on the strongest possible basis through the sending of General MacArthur there, and our relations are, for the duration, primarily military.

So the sooner this quarrel is abandoned, the beter it will be for everybody concerned.

And, cheerio—this little tempest is nothing compared with what is taking place in European Axis ranks. The Rumanioans are now threatening to fight the Hungarians, though both of them are supposed to be fighting Russia at the same time on behalf of Hitler. Germnay is sending trouble shooters to Bucharest and Budapest. The significant thing about it would seem to be the timing—on the verge of the spring campaign.

Let's not begin to quarrel at the very moment when they begin to quarrel.

The forms shown here are the most important sections of the new four-page occupational questionnaire designed to obtain for the government full information on vocational backgrounds of men registering last Feb. 16 under the Selective Service and Training act.

The questionnaire will be sent by local boards at first only to those men who made the third registration. Later it will be sent to the men who made the first and second registrations and to all future registrants.

When the data is obtained it will be forwarded through the state directors of selective service for use by the National Roster of Scientific and Specialized Personnel in locating persons with professional or scientific backgrounds. It will also be used by the U. S. Employment Service to locate workmen with special skills in critical trades.

The questionnaire has no connection with the regular questionnaire form 40 sent to all selective service registrants to obtain information on which classification for possible military service is based. The new form will not be sent to men already in military service.

The questionnaire is presented here for study, and to assist those who will fill in the regular forms later on. As printed here it should NOT be clipped and mailed in to selective service officials.

2. Are all these expenses of the groom: gift for the best man, clergyman's fee, gifts for the ushers?
3. Should the groom's mother be asked to make a list of the friends to whom she wishes wedding invitations or announcements sent?

Donal Petersen With Orchestra On Eastern Tour

Notre Dame, Ind., March 23— The Notre Dame concert band of fifty pieces, of which Donal Petersen of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Petersen, is president, and which is directed by Joseph J. Casasanta, Mus. B., will make an eastern tour opening Easter Sunday, April 5, in Milford, Mass., and including appearances in New York City and the state of Pennsylvania.

This will be the first trip by a Notre Dame concert band to New York City, and the engagement will be filled Monday, April 6, at the McAlpin Ballroom. Tuesday will be spent sight-seeing in the city.

Scranton, Pa., will be host to the symphony on Wednesday, April 8; Thursday, April 9, an engagement will be filled at Wilkesbarre, Pa.; and the concluding concert will be given April 10 at Johnstown, Pa. Additional programs may be offered, probably at Altoona, Pa., and Pittsburgh, Pa., on following dates.

Milford, Mass., has been chosen for the opening concert of the tour in order to honor both Prof. Casasanta and James Cooney, a member of the band, whose homes are in that city.

Tour in 1940

The first eastern tour of this organization was made in 1940, at which time engagements were filled in Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The band fills a regular schedule of concerts played at Notre Dame and in the middlewest, but does not make a yearly tour.

Members of the symphony organization are selected from the famous 100 piece Notre Dame marching band, widely known for its appearances on the gridiron to salute the "Fighting Irish."

Prof. Casasanta has directed both the concert and the marching bands since first coming to Notre Dame twenty-two years ago. In addition to his conducting duties at Notre Dame, he wields the baton for the South Bend Symphony Orchestra. He is the author of several famous Notre Dame songs, including "Hike, Notre Dame" and "When Irish Backs Go Marching By," which are scheduled for performance on the concert appearances of the band.

Highlights of the symphony programs to be given on the eastern tour include the famous "Universal Judgment" by De Nardis, a composition which won first prize in a national band contest at Naples, Italy, in 1878. The arrangement which will be used is by Antonio Cafarella. The work is extended in form and made up of a number of well-contrasted melodious developments.

On Concert Program

An arrangement of "Victor Herbert Favorites" by Lake built around such themes as "Because You're You," "I'm Falling In Love With Someone," and "Gypsy Love Song", will be played, as will the "Mardi Gras" selection from the Mississippi Suite of Ferde Grofe. Other famous numbers are "Lady of Spain" arranged by Cailliet, Gounod's "Ave Maria", an arrangement by Clark of "March of the Toys" from "Babes In Toyland," and Hurrell's "Trombones to the Front."

Marches on the concert program include "Stepping Along" and "On the Mall" by Goldman, Sousa's "King Cotton" and "U. S. Field Artillery," and Alford's "Glory of the Gridiron."

Clarinetist Donal Petersen of Escanaba, Mich., is president of the 1941-42 concert band. John Nolan, saxophonist, Chillicothe, Ohio, is vice-president, and secretary-treasurer is Robert Heil, Ulrichsville, Ohio.

As an added feature of the concerts, a short film entitled "Football Highlights of the 1941 season" showing last year's unbeaten "Fighting Irish" in action will be offered.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, March 23 (AP)—The stock market developed moderate rising tendencies today as disturbing news, for the most part, was lacking.

The direction was slightly upward at the start but dealings were sluggish and top gains of fractions to 2 points were reduced at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished with a net advance of .2 of a point at 34.9. Transfers totalled 281,410 and compared with 276,870 Friday.

War bulletins generally remained indecisive but a little buying cropped up, brokers said, on individual situations and the belief the list was in a position to respond to any real bullish turn in international affairs. Tax and labor doubts continued to handicap sentiment to some extent.

A lot of good earnings statements, notably those of General Motors and American Commercial Alcohol, were a bolstering influence. Steels were able to show only small plus signs despite an estimated jump in this week's mill operations to a new high for actual ingot production.

Action of the house ways and means committee in ordering concrete proposals drawn up for a federal sales tax cheered Wall Street which favors this method of collecting revenues on the idea some relief might be given corporations.

New York, March 23 (AP)—Resumption of broad speculative buying of low priced rail loans gave the bond market today its largest trading volume since early last April and pushed the Associated Press index of 20 carrier issues to a new 1942 high.

The big turnover on bonds was in marked contrast with a slow movement in the stock market where volume was around the lowest in recent years and prices not far above the lows of the last four years.

Tax considerations again were credited with turning buyers toward the second grade carrier loans. Some have been meeting interest obligations regularly and others, in the reorganization class and in default, were believed to be in line for resumption of interest payments because of improved revenues.

Contributing heavily to the total dealings of $17,099,000, face value, against Friday's $10,660,000, were such bonds as Rock Island refunding 4s, Denver & Rio Grande Western 5s, Frisco 4½s of '78, and Missouri Pacific "F" 5s of '77. In these the transactions ranged from around $300,000 to more than $600,000, par value. All closed fractionally higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, March 23 (AP)—Another outburst of selling in the grain market, similar to that which weakened prices last week, caused a new sinking spell today and most quotations reached virtually the lowest general level of the year before there was a rally.

Soybeans were weakest, tumbling more than 5 cents at one stage to lows unequaled here since mid-January. This helped to upset values in other pits and wheat and rye fell almost 2 cents, wheat selling the lowest since early last December and rye since early in January.

In the absence of trade developments upon which the liquidation could be blamed, brokers attributed the reaction to a continuation of spring liquidation due to a combination of factors. These included lagging demand from consuming interests, except in the case of feeding grains, likelihood of a scarcity of storage space when 1942 harvests begin, favorable winter wheat prospects, postponement of consideration of legislation to restrict government grain sales and possibility of increased spring military activity.

THEY CAN USE TOOLS

Ogden, Utah (AP)—Students in defense training classes at Weber Junior College are learning not only machine shop practice and aircraft engine maintenance, but also principles and methods of design and construction of essential aircraft tools.

Dr. Robert A. Clarke, director of vocational education at the college, said the unusual classwork began when the school's shops were unable to purchase the tools because of the heavy demand for them in aircraft factories.

Now the students have designed and made at least $2,000 worth of tools for the shop, including such complicated devices as thrust bearing nut wrenches, bearing pullers, piston ring compressors, timing wrenches, cam reduction gear holders, crankshaft cheek alignment tools and valve spring compressors.

ANOTHER WAR HAZARD

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—In this saluting business, it's the officer—not the private—who is to be pitied.

Recently enlisted men were ordered to salute their officers all along the west coast as a matter of military courtesy. Previously the salute was skipped outside military posts.

"In the first war some of the boys used to salute the plague second lieutenants," relates Henry Love. "They'd string out all around town, just far enough apart so the second looey would have to return every individual salute.

"In a short time a second looey couldn't be found in the leave area—they'd had enough."

TEA FROM WHEAT?

Melbourne (AP) — Australian housewives may use wheat as a substitute for tea. Since the supplies of tea have been taken over by the government, one official suggested this recipe:

Brown in the oven one pound of wheat sprinkled with three tablespoonfuls of sugar and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Then store in airtight jar. When brewing wheat "tea", use one teaspoonful to each person, making it in the usual manner.

CHAPTER XXXV

"Peyton, you're not worth the shot it would take to kill you, but—I'll speak to Drake."

"Will you honest?"

"Tomorrow."

"Gee! In a little while I ought to be able to clear enough to take care of that debt to the St. George estate—if I'm not found out in the meantime. But the thing that scares me—"

"What?"

"Just lately Fulmer Green has had something to do with the St. George properties. He's got an eye on the real estate business around here, too. He may know something."

"Heaven pity you if he gets on your trail. I'll see what Drake can do to help you out financially right away."

"This means a lot, Parris." Peyton stood up. "Now I want to tell you something about that attack in the Chronicle."

"All right, go on."

"Fulmer Green was behind it. He had some advance information about the proposal to buy, and he tried to get an option on the place himself. Then he found out you and Drake owned it."

"I see." Parris spoke evenly, but he was turning cold inside. "Go on."

"He really owns a controlling interest in the Chronicle but nobody knows it. He backed Wardlaw so he'd have a paper behind his political career."

"You're sure?"

"Sure. A lawyer in St. Louis named R. R. Rosebro can prove it."

"Thanks, Peyton. You ought to be a detective."

After Peyton had gone, Parris called Fulmer Green.

"That you, Fulmer? Parris Mitchell. I want to talk to you right away—no, I won't come over there. No! Tomorrow won't do. Be here at the hospital in half an hour. Don't make it longer."

Peyton walked blindly down the long avenue from the main building of the hospital to its tall gates. He was terribly confused. The confusion was part relief, and part apprehension and unease.

Imagine working for Drake McHugh. Drake, whom he had turned out of his office once, now crippled and married to a little nobody and living in a little house down there in the lower end of town with all kinds of foreigners. His boss! A bitter pill—but there were worse.

Parris had done something no other man in Kings Row would do. He'd live up to it. He'd get straightened out. He thought again of Fulmer Green, and a quick perspiration dampened his face.

Reaching his office, he switched on the light and sat down at his desk, confidence returning with familiar surroundings. His glance fell on a long envelope. It was a special delivery letter, mailed in Kings Row that afternoon. He felt a chill go down his spine as he saw it was from Fulmer Green.

Peyton read the three short paragraphs at a glance, knowing what they said almost without reading them. This finished him. Too late for Parris to help. Or Drake . . .

He scrawled a note. Then he opened the lowest desk drawer and took out a revolver. He arose and walked into the lavatory and closed the door.

Fulmer Green sat opposite Parris. His face was wet with perspiration.

"I don't know where you got all this, unless it was from that stinking Peyton Graves, but if you think you can scare me—"

"You are scared. People like you always are scared whenever they're found out. You were a nasty, cowardly boy in school, afraid to jump on anybody until you had a gang behind you. Society always has a few like you."

Fulmer tried to laugh, but his mouth was dry.

"Fulmer, The Evening Chronicle will publish a full retraction of that accusation of last year. I'll furnish you with the correct data. The retraction won't be editorial. It will be over your signature."

"I won't do it. You're a fool, Parris Mitchell."

"Would you rather Miles Jackson published it in the paper?"

"The Gazette—you mean—"

"Of course. Do you think I'll let you do this to me, and do nothing about it? Incidentally, I had a little talk with the governor last week. He seems an honest sort of man."

Fulmer was red as fire, but he said nothing for a moment.

"All right, but—"

"There aren't any 'buts.' Just write it and have it in my hands tomorrow after breakfast. You'll get it back in time for the paper."

The telephone rang; its faint tinkle contrasted with the tense atmosphere of the room. Parris answered.

"Hello. . . . Yes. . . . What? . . . When? . . . I see. . . . Yes. I'll come on down. . . . Oh, a note . . . to me? . . . All right, I'll be along in five minutes."

He replaced the receiver.

"Fulmer!"

"Yeh."

"Peyton Graves shot himself a few minutes ago."

Fulmer's eyes stretched wide.

"Did you have anything to do with this?"

"What do you mean?"

"Peyton was afraid about something."

"I haven't done anything to Peyte Graves."

"I hope you are telling the truth. Come on, you're going with me."

Fulmer looked anxiously at Parris, but Parris' face was set and expressionless. Fulmer followed him rather meekly.

Parris spent much of his free time with Drake and Randy, who were busied with their purchase and development of the Crescent Hill properties. Drake's mind, Parris felt, had completely recovered from old wounds. He was confident, happy, his self-esteem restored.

Even more often he saw the Sandors. He had begun to feel that the comfortable, mellow old house was home again. Often Mr. Sandor spoke of his work.

"I'm a practical horticulturist. Now your scientists—these wizards—I do not do anything like that. First of all, that is not my job."

"What is your job, exactly?"

"To improve the common breed."

Parris considered this, and repeated the phrase slowly. "To—improve—the—common—breed."

"Yes. Exactly. But you understand—like this: to make an improvement on all fronts of advancement at once."

"No, I don't understand you at all."

"Like this. I work with a species of—of bean, let us say. I work to make a few more pods, each pod a little larger, to make fewer leaves maybe, to adopt the plant to a particular climate, to make it a little hardier, maybe a little quicker to flower—many points like that. Just practical improvement of vegetables, that's all."

"To improve the common breed!" Parris said the words again, rather dreamily.

Elise studied his face. "It would be good if somebody would do this for human beings."

"I was thinking just that."

Sometimes Parris plodded about the familiar fields and slopes with Sandor. Sometimes they talked, but more often these excursions were silent. Sandor was intent on his subjects. Parris dreamed, or remembered. Out of all of his new association with every familiar corner of the old place something was coming back to him. Piece by piece, little by little, a reconstruction was taking place. He began to gain a perspective he had not had.

In his attitude and in his adjustment to his own increasing world, and even in the external manifestations of his personality, the intentions and purposes of Marie von Ein came gradually to their full fruition.

Once in a while Parris talked about his grandmother to Elise as they walked across the hills, and through the yellow autumn fields.

He watched her as she talked. The half-stately phrases of her careful English had a special charm. It reminded him of his grandmother's speech. There was an odd flavor, almost exotic, about her utterance of the simplest commonplace.

"Dr. Mitchell, I must ask you a question."

"All right."

"The first time you came here, when you came up on the terrace, you asked me if my name was Renee. Why did you think that might be my name?"

"I think I was startled by the way you looked."

"Like someone named Renee?"

"She was a little girl I used to play with."

She looked up quickly. "Your sweetheart?"

"I was a small boy. She lived on the place—in the overseer's house."

"What became of her?"

A look, like a sudden shadow, crossed his face. Elise had seen the expression before.

"She went away. The family left."

"Oh. You never saw her again?"

"It was long ago." The shadow lay on his face again, and Elise said no more. They climbed a barbed-wire fence, and Elise tore her skirt. He had helped her over the fence, and still held her hand. They walked on through the tall dry grass of an open field.

That winter Parris set about organizing his notes and his published articles into a book. The work proved more difficult than he had expected, and as a consequence he saw very little of Randy and Drake or of the Sandors. He planned to go to Vienna in May for final consultation with the board of editors. It was to be a hurried trip.

One evening Randy called him rather late.

"I want to see you, Parris. Could you come down?"

Randy met him at the corner. "Drake's sick, Parris."

"What's wrong?"

"He's in a great deal of pain. In his hip. He's been complaining some all winter. But I thought it was fatigue. He stayed propped up too long at a time. That's what Dr. McNeill thought, too."

"Does Drake—did he tell Drake anything?"

"No. But he left a sedative. Drake's easier just now."

Parris found Drake half asleep, but tossing restlessly. He felt extremely depressed when he left the house.

His interview with Dr. McNeill confirmed his fears.

"Of course, Dr. Mitchell, there must be a consultation. But I'm fairly sure."

"It's not—?" Parris choked a little and cleared his throat. Dr. McNeill sensed the question.

"An operation would be useless."

"How long?"

Dr. McNeill shrugged doubtfully. "I don't give him more than six months—maybe less."

LAKE SHIPPING TO OPEN SOON

Port Inland Awaiting First Cargo Boat of Season

The shipping season at Port Inland is expected to open this week to herald the start of what is likely to be the biggest shipping season in history on the Great Lakes.

Several boats are booked to take cargoes of stone at Port Inland as soon as navigation opens on the lakes. Large ice floes were driven into the harbor yesterday from the east but safe navigation is expected shortly.

Because of the tremendous demand for steel created by the feverish war production needs, lake transportation is certain to reach an all time high this season. Huge piles of iron ore and limestone are awaiting movement from the upper peninsula and northern Minnesota to the steel mills.

The arrival of the steamer Leopold here last spring officially opened the 1941 navigation season on the Upper Lakes.

GARDEN CLUBS TO BE FORMED

Food Will Play Vital Role In War, Says Heirman

Boys and girls on the farm can be of great help to their parents this summer by growing a large garden under the 4-H program, according to J. L. Heirman, county agricultural agent.

More food will be needed in the United States in 1942 than in any previous year. Besides a large amount of food will be needed to send to our allies.

"We want to make sure that we will have plenty of food so that there will be no need for rationing," said Heirman.

"Records show that in 1941 there were 55,000 4-H club members in Michigan. This great army supplemented by additional members this year can do a great deal towards producing the food for our people.

"Parents should encourage their children to plant and care for a garden this summer. Labor will be scarce with the result that the farmer himself will not have the time to work in the garden like he has in past years.

"We do not want families in the rural areas to discontinue growing gardens due to shortage of labor because the garden is the essential food supply for the families. Here is where 4-H boys and girls can do their share by joining the Victory Garden parade."

Many 4-H clubs will be organized in every community in the county if the boys and girls are interested in joining. Besides garden projects, 4-H boys can raise a calf, grow out a pig, or grow potatoes. Girls can carry out food preparation projects and canning projects.

If there is anyone interesed in acting as a local leader for a summer 4-H club in the community in which he or she lives, they should contact the county agricultural agent. This is one way they can do their part in the victory program.

OIL WELL NOW 415 FT. DEEP

Drilling Is Progressing Satisfactorily At Hiawatha

Drilling of an experimental oil well in Hiawatha township on the Alphonse Verschure property has progressed to the 415 foot depth, it has been learned. The well drilling is being conducted by Ellwyn Anderson.

It is not expected that oil will be tapped above the Trenton rock formation, which is estimated to lie at a depth of about 900 feet in the Hiawatha area. Drillings will continue to a depth of about 2,000 feet unless a substantial pool of oil is tapped before that level is reached.

Sufficient pipe for casing the well is on hand and will be set before the Trenton level is reached.

Surveys have indicated the presence of oil in commercial quantities in the Hiawatha area and it is upon the results of the surveys that the experimental well is being drilled.

Persons interested in the oil development have leased a considerable number of acres of land in the Hiawatha area for further exploitation in the event the experimental well proves successful.

Pennies Go for Defense Bonds

George Barton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Barton Jr., Minneapolis, and a grandson of Mrs. J. A. Diamond of Gladstone, is a man after Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau's heart.

George saved 7,500 pennies, and he says, first of all, that if you don't think that is a whale of a job, then you can just embark yourself on a project like that and see.

His original objective was a little car for himself. But since the guns barked at Pearl Harbor, and the Japs began threatening the western world, George threw his own desires out the window and decided at once to "buy a gun" for his "Uncle Paul" so the latter could shoot some Japs with it.

"Uncle Paul" is just a very good pal of his in the service, not really an uncle. Anyway, George with the aid of his daddy, took his oversize pop bottle full of coppers to the bank and invested them in four $25 defense bonds. The bank clerk in charge of bond sales at the Minneapolis bank is shown helping George empty the big bottle.

The bottle of pennies weighed 56 pounds and 9 ounces. George is three years old and he has been eight months collecting the pennies. Relatives, friends, neighbors and parents had almost as much fun helping to fill up the bottle as George himself did.

Colleges Put Stress On Physical Education---Then Curb Sports

Schools Holding Tight To Their Pocketbooks

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, March 23—The emphasis right now is on physical condition, with our colleges encouraged to expand their athletic programs to include youths whose exercise normally would end with the exercise of their right not to exercise.

Such a program of expansion would seem to call for an increase in the staff of sports instructors. So what happens?

Yale whacks three coaches from its payroll. Those guys ought to be unionized, then they could picket the joint, carrying placards reading: "Yale unfair to organized coaches. Local No. 324." and urge sports fans to boycott the Yale Bowl. The fans did last fall, at that.

The dismissals weren't "for conduct unbecoming a Dodger," as Leo Durocher would say. The action was in the interest of economy and nobody can say that isn't a sound reason, as you can't buy peanuts without a nickle. However, it must be quite a blow to the Eli grads to learn that their venerable and snooy alma mater practically is on relief from the athletic department's standpoint.

Aides Promoted

Yale makes no bones about its financial predicament, and must be given credit for that. The most unfortunate part of the situation concerns the three amputated coaches, one of whom gets a pension out of it at least. He'd only been there about 28 years, and probably knew when he took the job that it wasn't permanent.

Other schools are more or less inadvertently curtailing their sports budgets. These are the schools whose high-priced coaches have taken leaves of absence to join the service. In most instances no effort was made to bring in a replacement at an equivalent salary. Assistants were moved up to fill the gaps, and although the new acting head coach might be given a nominal raise in recognition of his increased responsibilities, there isn't much chance that he'll draw down the wages his absent boss was getting.

Getting back to Yale, it's an odd and none too complimentary situation when an ivy-draped institution which might be expected to set the pace for comprehensive athletic programs is forced to admit it hasn't got a pot to cook its sports in, particularly when schools of more recent vintage which the Elis wouldn't ride in the same cab with, athletically speaking, sail serenely along, paying more substantial salaries (to the coaches, of course).

Read the Future

Perhaps Yale has had a glimpse of the handwriting on the wall and is just a step ahead of other schools in the retrenchment program. Stanford with the resignation of Clark Shaughnessy, announces it will ease up on sports, with the tendency toward less formal schedules.

It seems fairly certain right now that next fall will see a sharp decrease in football crowds, and a decrease in crowds means a decrease in funds available to carry on extensive athletic programs. That would indicate a slash in the coaching staffs.

But if they cut the coaching staffs, how are the schools going to expand their programs to include more students? It sounds like trying to grow more apples by pulling out a few trees.

Those boys are going to need somebody to organize and conduct their sports.

ESKY DISTANCE RUNNERS DRILL

Wylie Sends Candidates Outside for First Time Today

Distance runners, veterans and greenhorns of the quarter, half and mile grinds, get down to business at Escanaba high school today.

Coach Henry Wylie called the distance men into a huddle yesterday and announced they are to drill outside the school this afternoon. They will work this week on the vacant property immediately west of the high school building.

The sprinters, hurdlers and field events performers will continue their workouts in the gymnasium each afternoon this week. Coach Dick Schram is directing the jumpers, vaulters and weight men in the indoor drills, while Coach Jim Rouman will turn his attention to the sprinters and hurdlers after the conclusion of the basketball season this weekend.

No Smoking

Wylie, who advised his distance runners to wear warm clothing in their outdoor workouts, declared he was "not worried about you eating too much, for the running you'll do will take care of your weight." He added, however, that smoking, other intemperate habits or the inclination not to work would result in dismissal from the squad.

Rouman announced yesterday that the Eskymos' track and field season likely will open with a "mail meet" duel against Albion college freshmen Friday, May 1.

From that point on the Eskymo thinclads will find their Saturdays well filled, to wit:

May 9, invitational meet at Manistique.

May 16, district meet, probably at Escanaba.

May 23, U. P. finals at Houghton.

May 30, annual U. P. Relays here.

Weather permitting, the Eskymos will shift their track activities to the school stadium about Monday, April 6. Ice and snow are still in evidence there.

Meanwhile, Rouman's varsity basketball squad, the peninsula's only undefeated Class B team and pointing for a clash with Iron River in the first round of the peninsula finals at Marquette on Friday night, is stepping through afternoon drills on the Junior high school court.

Rained-Out Games Barred By Censor

Washington, March 23 (AP)—Broadcasters were advised today with the approach of the baseball season, that such announcements as, "game called on account of rain," would violate the wartime censorship code.

A memorandum from the office of censorship said, "if weather conditions cause cancellation of a game, simply state the fact that the game has been cancelled without describing the cause. The unchallengable baseball broadcast of 1942 will make no reference to the weather conditions at the scene of play."

Newspapers may advise their readers a game has been cancelled "because of weather," with details omitted.

TIGERS BEATEN BY 'DEM BUMS'

Rookie Southpaws Hold Detroit In Check, Higgins Homers

Lakeland, Fla., March 23 (AP)—Two Brooklyn southpaws, veteran Larry French and rookie Bob Chipman, held the Detroit Tigers to three hits today—one an inside-the-park homer by Pinky Higgins—to give the National League champions a 7 to 2 victory.

The defeat was Detroit's eighth in eleven Grapefruit League tilts.

The 33 year old French, long a mainstay of the Chicago Cubs before going to the Dodgers last year, had the Bengals helpless with his screwball. He allowed only two hits—bith singles—in six innings and struck out five, three of them in the second inning when Rudy York, Bob Patrick and Higgins went down swinging.

Chipman, a 22 year old up from Atlanta, was almost as miserly. He made the mistake, however, of issuing a walk to York before feeding a home run ball to Higgins or else the Tigers might have been whitewashed. Except for that inning Detroit never got a runner as far as second base.

Virgil (Fire) Trucks, who in nine previous innings of exhibition baseball yielded only four hits and no earned runs, went five innings and gave up as many runs and hits.

The Cardinals' big inning was the fturth when a walk, singles by Estel Crabtre and Erv Dusak, a double by Walker Cooper and a single by Bud Blatter scored three runs off Walters.

He Had Fun

A Milwaukee daily reported that Ray Wahowiak, another pinbuster of this sector, was designated as the bowler "who had the most fun" at the Wisconsin meet.

Louis In Form For Simon Bout

Fort Dix, N. J., March 23. (AP)—If Joe Louis has slowed down, as some of the best of the ballyhoo boys would have you believe, then they should have let him work out in a dark corner today, where no prying eyes could get a peek.

Because the Bomber, beginning his last three days of work for his emergency relief row with ample Abe Simon in Madison Square Garden Friday night, was about as slow as a flying fortress and just as deadly. He dished out an assortment of gaudy bloody noses in a four-round workout with George Fitch, Eddie Blunt and George Nicholson and was so smooth doing it that you felt kind of sorry for Ample Abe.

Foot Forward

Warren Spahn, not yet 20, is bright southpaw prospect with Boston Braves at Sanford, Fla. Six-footer helped Evansville to pennant by topping Three-I league with 1.83 earned-run average, in winning percentage with 19 and 6 and in shutouts with 7.

BASEBALL

WYATT SIGNS

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 22, (AP)—Whitlow Wyatt, last of the major league's top flight holdouts Sunday signed a one-year contract to pitch for the Brooklyn Dodgers at a reported salary of $17,500.

Wyatt only would say that a satisfactory agreement had been reached between him and President Larry MacPhail, of the Dodgers, and that his contract carried no bonus clauses.

The Georgia farmer won 27 games for Brooklyn last season at a reported salary of $11,500. This spring he held out for $20,000 and MacPhail countered with $13,500 and bonus clauses.

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA

Lakeland, Fla., March 23, (AP)—Two wide open battles for positions bear out early estimates in the Detroit Tiger training camp that the club's infield problems largely are centered at shortstop and second base.

Before the Tigers head north for their American league opener with Cleveland at Detroit April 14, Manager Del Baker and his board of strategy will make a decision on the selection of successors to Frank Croucher, now with Washington, and Charley Gehringer. As a Detroit coach, Gehringer's opinions on the relative merits of the infielders will have great weight.

Baker is known to be planning to let the veteran Eric (Boob) McNair start the season at shortstop, thereby giving Billy Hitchcock, high priced rookie, a chance to get a look at a few major league games before becoming an active participant. There is the notion, too, based on their records, that the Boobus will outhit Hitchcock by 15 or 20 points.

Hurt Last Year

If McNair gets the call, he will be filling a role intended for him last season. Purchased from the Chicago White Sox to become Detroit's first string shortfielder, McNair was injured his first day in camp and the ever alert rowdy Richard Bartell stepped in and grabbed the brass ring.

Jimmy Bloodworth was acquired from Washington to play second base, but he is receiving a particularly hot fight for the job from an unexpected source. Lambert (Dutch) Meyer, up from Buffalo of the International league, was expected to be the foremost challenger, but Murray Franklin, ex-Illinois collegian, has moved squarely into the picture.

Franklin, normally a shortstop or third baseman, shows promise of becoming somewhat of a power hitter. Smooth field Bloodworth doesn't hit often but last year he batted in 66 runs for Washington to rank 28th among the league's hitters. Baker likes those statistics very much.

C. G. Auxiliary Meets Wednesday

Escanaba flotilla, Coast Guard auxiliary, will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Escanaba lighthouse.

Boatswain's Mate M. E. Rhea of the Coast Guard will be present to discuss with fishermen and yachtsmen the new wartime rules for Great Lakes sailing to be enforced by the Coast Guard. All boatmen are invited to attend the meeting. Joseph Shipman, auxiliary member, will resume his discussion of first aid at sea.

Short Shots on Sports

By Milton Plumb

Don Ring, Iron Mountain shortstop and third baseman, has been tendered a contract by the Green Bay Bluejays of the Wisconsin State League, Class D circuit.

They ring down the U. P. high school basketball curtain at Marquette this week-end. Judging from the interest locally, Escanaba fans led by the man who never misses an athletic event, Harry Belanger, will invade Marquette in large numbers Friday night.

Gerald Priddy replaces Rolfe at third base for the Yankees . . . . Dillon Graham, Wide World, gives a "Thumbnail preview of the Yankees: "Infield good . . . . outfield excellent . . . . catching excellent . . . . pitching good . . . . batting excellent . . . . finish, first" . . . . also describes the Reds: "Infield good . . . .outfield, fair . . . . pitching, tops . . . . catching good . . . . hitting poor . . . . finish, first division" . . . . The Cubs this year have something of a Latin-American appearance, with Hi Bithorn, from Puerto Rico; Jess Flores, from Mexico, and Chico Hernandez, from Cuba . . . . The real name of Ed Levy, first base candidate with the Yankees, is Ed Whitner, and he is an Irish-American. But Levy is the name of his stepfather, and the Yankees, thinking of those two million Jewish fans in New York, insisted that Ed sign his contract as Levy . . . . The Tigers say it costs them $190.10 to outfit a player, exclusive of catchers' equipment, etc. Each player gets four uniforms . . . . Poor Notre Dame! The Irish won only 16 of their 22 cage games this season, so Coach George Keogan's 19-year basketball percentage fell from .771 to .768.

Tokle Defeats Devlin and Engen In Ski Jumps

Salt Lake City, March 23. (AP)—Torger Tokle, North American titleholder, leaped 235 feet through the air at Ecker hill on Sunday, but ski experts' hopes of a 100-yard record - shattering jump were dashed by sticky snow.

Tokle, who holds the record at 289-foot, made the 235-foot leap in his first official jump at the Inter - mountain championship meet. He leaped again, but his distance was a foot less, at 234.

Alf Engen, of Sun Valley, Idaho, made 234 feet his first try, but fell back to 229 on his second attempt.

Art Devlin jumped 225 and 222 feet.

Officials said sticky snow prevented the skiers from attaining enough speed on their downhill races to hurl themselves into the air at a height that would have carried them to record-breaking distances.

In practice jumps at Ecker hill, Engen twice has soared past the 290-foot mark, but he has been unable to equal that performance in official leaps.

VETERAN ROOKIE MAY HELP REDS

Ray Starr, 35, Gets One More Chance In Big League Show

BY JUDSON BAILEY

Tampa, Fla., March 23. (AP)—The typical rookie of 1942 may very well be Ray Starr of the Cincinnati Reds, who is 35 years old, is the father of two children and has been playing baseball for 16 years.

These are war times and a "3-A" draft classification is as important as ability. One is no good without the other. And Starr has both.

His record is one of the strangest of any freshman breaking into the big leagues this spring and one of the strangest features is that he insists the record is wrong.

Starr made his debut in organized baseball at Danville in the 3-I league in 1926 and since then had played with a list of clubs that would shame a train announcer: Marshalltown, Ia., Topeka, Shawnee, Rochester, Minneapolis, Toronto, Syracuse, Nashville, Fort Worth, Dallas and Indianapolis in addition to hasty appearances with the St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants, Boston Braves and now the Cincinnati Reds.

Last year he won 20 games for the weak Indianapolis Indians and then joined the Reds in time to win three and lose two at the end of the season—and also in time to make Manager Bill McKechnie smack his lips with pleasure.

Worked Twin Bills

In the beginning Starr had a tendency to wildness and needed plenty of work. When he played at Rochester under Billy Southworth in 1931 he got it with the result that he won 20 games and lost seven. He pitched three doubleheaders that year and won five of the six games. The enrouter that he lost went 14 innings and Starr would have won it too, Southworth recalls, except for an infielder's muff of a double play ball.

Starr came up to the Cards the next spring to try to elbow his way onto a pitching staff that included Dizzy Dean, Jess Haines, Bill Hallahan and some other fellows whose names will long be remembered. The record shows he got into three games for a total of 20 innings without a decision, but Starr contends that he made only one appearance and pitched a two-hitter to beat Brooklyn 3-0.

In any case he went back to Rochester, was sold to the Giants, passed along to the Braves and continued his Cook's tour of baseball.

For the last five years he has won anywhere from a dozen to 23 games a year, but probably because of his advancing years none of the major league clubs paid much heed until the war made age a thing of value.

POTSY CLARK IN NAVAL SERVICE

Other Michigan Coaches In Uniform Include Gary and Keen

Detroit, Mich., March 23 (AP)—The United States Navy today gained two lieutenant-commanders, one lieutenant and an ensign at the expense of Michigan college athletic departments.

The Navy announced that George (Potsy) Clark, football coach at Grand Rapids university and former coach of the Detroit Lions, and Cliff Keen, University of Michigan wrestling coach, will receive commissions as lieutenant commanders after a month's indoctrination course at the Naval academy at Annapolis. Later they will be assigned as physical instructors of naval units.

Mitchell J. (Mike) Gary, head football coach at Western Michigan college and former star at Minnesota in the days of Herb Joesting, left today for Annapolis on a similar mission. He will be commissioned a lieutenant, senior grade.

Fraumann Joins

Harlin (Whitey) Frauman, end on the University of Michigan football team for the past two years, also left today for Annapolis and will be given an ensign's commission following completion of the special training course.

Dr. Paul V. Sangren, president of Western Michigan college, announced that John Gill, backfield coach, would be elevated to head football coach in place of Gary, who had been granted a leave of absence for the duration of the war.

M. E. Davenport, vice president of Grand Rapids university, said Clark's post will be taken by Jerry Ford, former University of Michigan center and line coach at Yale for six years. Ford has been Clark's assistant.

No one has been named to succeed Keen at Michigan.

Sault Takes Lead In Hockey Series

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., March 23, (AP)—Scoring five goals in a third-period rally, the Sault Ste. Marie Indians took a two-point lead in the Northern Michigan hockey league playoff finals with a 6 to 4 decision over the Marquette Sentinels here tonight.

Tied at 5-5 prior to tonight's clash, the third of a four-game total-goal series for the Gibson trophy, the Indians trailed, 3 to 1, at the end of the second period before opening their third-quarter blast before 2,400 spectators.

The final game will be played here Tuesday night.

It was announced during the game that Calumet will put up for competition the famed McNaughton cup this year, the Copper Country sextet to defend it against the winners of the Gibson playoffs. A single game will be played, on the home ice of the winning team.

Newark Beaten By Yankees, 9-5

Sebring, Fla., March 23. (AP)—After the Newark Bears of the International league once got over their stage-fright in playing the New York Yankees, the minor leaguers outplayed, outbatted and outpitched the world champions today.

However, a six-run outburst in the first inning gave the Yankees margin enough to chalk up a 9 to 5 triumph.

Tom Byrne, young Newark lefthander, issue dfour walks and allowed three hits—including a double by pitcher Mel Queen—in a fat first inning to give the Yankees their cushion.

Two more walks and a single by Jerry Priddy and a home run by Tuck Stainbach meant three runs in the third. Newark's first two scores were manufactured around Joe DiMaggio's error in centerfield. DiMaggio got two singles, one in the fourth and the other in the ninth.

RAILROADS SET FOR EMERGENCY

Big Job Being Done Right Now, Escanaba Lions Members Told

America's railroads are prepared to meet any predictable demand on them in the present war, Roob H. Allie, Detroit, public relations director of the Michigan Railroads Association, told the Escanaba Lions club at their weekly session at the Delta hotel Monday night.

"Our railroads can supply adequate, satisfactory service if we avoid hysteria and retain the proper perspective as to the volume of the war load and do not interfere with the normal methods of freight movement," he declared.

"That the railroads are ready is not an empty boast. We have proved it may times recently. For instance, in 1941, we performed the greatest freight service by any railroad system in any country in history. We handled 43 million carloads of freight, or five percent more than in the former record year of 1929, and 26 percent more than in 1940; and we did it without a single major complaint. A few highlights in that job were the handling of three million soldiers in more than 5,200 special trains; the carrying of 105,000 troops all in special trains in three nights from four different training areas to the mock warfare in Louisiana; the movement of every bushel of the near-record 1941 wheat crop for which storage space could be found and in addition the removal of 90 million bushels of 1940 carryover wheat to more remote bins to permit storage of the oncoming crop; the hauling of 901,000 carloads of freight in a single week in October, the greatest weekly volume since 1930; the handling of an additional 1,100,000 soldiers on Christmas furlough, and finally the emergency hauling of 600,000 fully armed soldiers in 16 days before Christmas following the Pearl Harbor attack. That last job alone was a miracle of railroading. Hitler may have moved as many soldiers in a similar period but he did it only by completely discontinuing all civilian travel. Our railroads did it so simply the public was hardly aware of it. In addition, 75 percent of the men rode in sleeping cars, the balance moved in coaches, none in freight cars, not one man missed one meal, the railroads hauling their field kitchens in baggage and express cars. Likewise, the railroads simultaneously moved the soldiers' guns, tanks and ammunition, in itself a major transportation job, so that when the men disembarked, they were ready for immediate action.

"We are able to do all this because since World War days we've spent eleven billion dollars in rebuilding our railroad plant. As a result it is enexcelled anywhere. Our locomotives are 50 percent stronger, a third faster than our World War locomotives, our cars have 25 percent greater carrying capacity, and because we operate more rapidly, our trains are 60 percent faster than in 1918 and do double the 1918 job."

Allie asserted there was no actual breakdown of the railroads in World War days. "The trouble then," he said, "arose from a misuse, not a proper use, of the railroads by the government that sadly interfered with normal railroad operation and finally caused the standing on sidings of 224,000 loaded cars that could neither be unloaded nor moved for months. Taking that many cars out of service meant depleting the capacity of the railroads by 20 to 25 percent. And once the government halted its practices the troubles ceased. Sharp increases in traffic as the result of the war did not cause the trouble, as no such sharp increase occurred. Actually, passenger traffic in World War days was only six percent more and freight traffic only 12 percent more than in the peacetime year of 1916. As a matter of fact, in each of ten different years since World War I we have moved more traffic than we did then, always with less equipment and always with no difficulty, shortage or congestion. War hysteria, not war traffic, caused the trouble. Today both the government and the railroads are prepared against a repetition of that sorry experience.

Guests at the Lions meeting last night included representatives of the Soo Line, Escanaba and Lake Superior and Chicago and North Western railways, and of the Railway Express.

K of C Members Open Celebration With Initiation

Celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Columbus by the local council was begun here Sunday when a class of candidates was initiated into the First Degree of the order. Both the members and candidates received Holy Communion in a body Sunday morning at St. Patrick's church.

Following the exemplification of the degree, Rev. Fr. Arthur LaFleur, chaplain of St. Francis hospital, delivered an interesting and forceful message to the members and candidates.

At an afternoon program at the K. of C. clubrooms C. P. Titus, county school commissioner, presented two movies, "Fighting the Fire Bomb," and "Louis Pasteur."

Both the initiation and program were well attended by members of the Escanaba council who enjoyed refreshments prepared by Emil L'Heureux and his committee following the meeting.

Men Up To 44 Are Now Being Enlisted By Army Recruiters

Army recruiting offices received orders this week to accept men through an upper age limit of 44. Although draft boards have had the authority to induct an older age group since December, recruiting offices formerly had to reject anyone over 35.

An extended age limit plus modified physical requirements will probably result in increased enlistment, according to Sergeant Wendell F. Anderson of the recruiting office in Green Bay. Men with impaired vision if it can be corrected to a specified minimum of efficiency and those with artificial dentures may now enlist. Married men may enlist if they can show their dependents have a means of support.

Ex-service men who served in any other branch of the service and are in good physical condition and can show their discharges from the branch they served before, will be accepted for enlistment.

For further information concerning enlistment in the army men may call or write the Army Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Green Bay, Wisconsin.
